Seeing Landscapes:

On Landscapes Susan Herrington, 2013-12-19 There is no escaping landscape it's everywhere and part of everyone's life. Landscapes have received much less attention in aesthetics than those arts we can choose to ignore such as painting or music but they can tell us a lot about the ethical and aesthetic values of the societies that produce them. Drawing on examples from a wide range of landscapes from around the world and throughout history Susan Herrington considers the ways landscapes can affect our emotions, our imaginations, and our understanding of the passage of time. On Landscapes reveals the design work involved in even the most naturalistic of landscapes and the ways in which contemporary landscapes are turning the challenges of the industrial past into opportunities for the future. Inviting us to thoughtfully see and experience the landscapes that we encounter in our daily lives, On Landscapes demonstrates that art is all around us.

Rational Landscapes and Humanistic Geography Edward Relph, 2015-07-30 This book first published in 1981 explores why it is that the modern built environment while successfully providing material comfort and technical efficiency none the less breeds despair and depression rather than inspires hope and commitment. The source of this paradox where material benefits appear to have been gained only at the expense of intangible values and qualities is found in humanism, the persistent and powerful belief that all problems can be solved through the use of human reason. But humanism has become increasingly confused, rationalistic, callously devoted to efficiency and authoritarian. These confusions and contradictions together with the anti-nature stance of humanism and its failure to teach humane behaviour lead the author to conclude that humanism is best rejected. Such rejection does not advocate the inhuman and anti-human but requires instead a return to the humility that lies at the origin of humanism: a respect for objects, creatures, environments, and people. This environmental humility is explored in the context of individuality of settings, ways of seeing landscapes, appropriation, and ways of building places. This title will be of interest to students of human geography.

Assessing Public Concern for Landscape Quality Arthur W. Magill, 1992

Thoreau's Sense of Place Richard J. Schneider, 2000-05 Recent Thoreau studies have shifted to an emphasis on the green Thoreau, the environmentalist rooted firmly in particular places and interacting with particular objects. In the wake of Buell's Environmental Imagination, the nineteen essayists in this challenging volume address the central questions in Thoreau studies today: how green, how immersed in a sense of place was Thoreau really, and how has this sense of place affected the tradition of nature writing in America? The contributors to this stimulating collection address the ways in which Thoreau and his successors attempt to cope with the basic epistemological split between perceiver and place inherent in writing about nature. Related discussions involve the kinds of discourse most effective for writing about place. They focus on the impact on Thoreau and his successors of culturally constructed assumptions deriving from science, politics, race, gender, history, and literary conventions. Finally, they explore the implications surrounding a writer's appropriation or even exploitation of places and objects.

Jeff Oliver, 2010 Nordamerika Kolonialzeit Landschaft Raumkonzepte soziale Konstruktion Landscape, Literature and English Religious Culture, 1660-1800 R. Mayhew, 2004-03-15 Landscape Literature and English Religious Culture 1660 1800 offers a powerful revisionist account of the intellectual significance of landscape descriptions during the long Eighteenth century Landscape has long been a major arena for debate about the nature of Eighteenth century English culture this book surveys those debates and offers a provocative new account Mayhew shows that describing landscape was a religiously contested practice and that different theological positions led differing authors to different descriptive approaches Landscape description then shows English intellectual life still in the grips of a Christian and classical mentality in the long Eighteenth century Landscapes Beyond Land Arnar Árnason, Nicolas Ellison, Jo Vergunst, Andrew Whitehouse, 2012-09-01 Land is embedded in a multitude of material and cultural contexts through which the human experience of landscape emerges Ethnographers with their participative methodologies long term co residence and concern with the quotidian aspects of the places where they work are well positioned to describe landscapes in this fullest of senses The contributors explore how landscapes become known primarily through movement and journeying rather than stasis Working across four continents they explain how landscapes are constituted and recollected in the stories people tell of their journeys through them and how in turn these stories are embedded in landscaped forms Seeing Landscapes Charlie Waite, 1999 Information on the creative aspects of each photograph combine with practical tips and technical detail to make this work an invaluable addition to the library of all keen photographers Landscape and History Since 1500 Ian D. Whyte, 2002 Landscape and History explores a complex relationship over the past five centuries The book is international and interdisciplinary in scope drawing on material from social economic and cultural history as well as from geography archaeology cultural geography planning and landscape history In recent years as the author points out there has been increasing interest in and concern for many aspects of landscape within British European and wider contexts This has included the study of the history development and changes in our perception of landscape as well as research into the links between past landscapes and political ideologies economic and social structures cartography art and literature There is also considerable concern at present with the need to evaluate and classify historic landscapes and to develop policies for their conservation and management in relation to their scenic heritage and recreational value This is manifest not only in the designation of particularly valued areas with enhanced protection from planning developments such as national parks and world heritage sites but in the countryside more generally Further Ian D Whyte argues changes in European Union policies relating to agriculture with a greater concern for the protection and sustainable management of rural landscapes are likely to be of major importance in relation to the themes of continuity and change in the landscapes of Britain and Europe

Aitchison, Nicola E. MacLeod, Stephen J. Shaw, 2000 This book has a broad inter disciplinary focus drawing from fields such as cultural studies history literature and geography and redefines the way we view our surroundings Romantic Revisions in

Novels from the Americas Lauren Rule Maxwell, 2013 Returning to British Romantic poetry allows the novels to extend the Romantic poetics of landscape that traditionally considered the British subject's relation to place By recasting Romantic poetics in the Americas these novels show how negotiations of identity and power are defined by the legacies of British imperialism illustrating that these nations their peoples and their works of art are truly postcolonial While many postcolonial scholars and critics have dismissed the idea that Romantic poetry can be used to critique colonialism Maxwell suggests that on the contrary it has provided contemporary writers across the Americas with a means of charting the literary and cultural legacies of British imperialism in the New World The poems of the British Romantics offer postcolonial writers particularly rich material Maxwell argues because they characterize British influence at the height of the British empire Nature in

Design in Landscape Architecture showcases a range of built works designed by landscape architects from many countries of the world representing diverse environmental regions and uses These projects demonstrate the transformative potential of a nature based approach to landscape architecture The nature based design approach supports and encourages natural regeneration with a view to promoting sustainable environments preserving natural resources and mitigating the impacts of climate change and development The projects selected for this book demonstrate the potential of nature based landscape design to support healthy natural and managed ecosystems sequester carbon and support the recovery of biodiversity In addition to examples of design led environmental interventions Nature Based Design in Landscape Architecture the book also demonstrates the potential for nature based design to improve people's relationship with their surroundings by encouraging them to be active participants in their communities As such each project featured in the book promotes a discussion around future scenarios in which landscape architects can and will be engaged from minimizing environmental impact through sustainable design to fostering social justice through community engagement This book will be a welcome supplement for undergraduate landscape architecture survey or design studio courses and may also be used at the master's degree level either as part of a landscape architecture survey seminar or early design studio Housing and Dwelling Barbara Miller Lane, 2006-11 A collection of thought provoking essays on the changing face of domestic architecture over two centuries highlighting the wide range of source materials and theoretical perspectives available to scholars of architectural history

Landscape and Branding Nicole Porter, 2015-10-05 Landscape and branding explores the way landscape is conceptualised conceived represented and designed by professionals in a brand driven age Landscape incorporating tangible physical space as well as intangible concepts narratives images and experiences of place is constructed by a number of creative industries This book tests the hypothesis that place branding a powerful marketing and management practice increasingly blurs the distinction between the promotion of landscape and its production in design terms Place branding involves the strategic and systematic composition of single minded experiential and market friendly place identities which are consistently communicated across various media including physical space How does this implicate or transform notions of place nature landscape experience and the qualitative value of landscape itself How does this affect the role of landscape architecture To answer these questions place branding theory and practice is critically examined alongside an in depth case study of one specific landscape the Blue Mountains Australia Projects undertaken between 1995 and 2015 including a branding strategy for the region media campaigns television cinema and several landscape architectural works in the public and private domain are comparatively analysed focusing on the discourse conventions and values informing their production and the landscape narratives they convey Military Geographies Rachel Woodward, 2011-07-15 Military Geographies is about how local space place environment and landscape are shaped by military presence and about how wider geographies are touched by militarism A book about how local space place environment and landscape are shaped by military presence and about how wider geographies are touched by militarism Sets a new agenda for the study of military geography with its critical analysis of the ways in which military control over space is legitimized Explores the ways in which militarism and military activities control development the use of space and our understanding of place Focuses on military lands establishments and personnel in contemporary peacetime settings Uses examples from Europe North America and Australasia Draws on original research into the mechanisms by which the British government manages the defence estate Illustrated with maps plans and other figures A Landscape of Travel Jenny T. Chio, 2014-03-28 While the number of domestic leisure travelers has increased dramatically in reform era China the persistent gap between urban and rural living standards attests to ongoing social economic and political inequalities The state has widely touted tourism for its potential to bring wealth and modernity to rural ethnic minority communities but the policies underlying the development of tourism obscure some complicated realities In tourism after all one person's leisure is another person's labor A Landscape of Travel investigates the contested meanings and unintended consequences of tourism for those people whose lives and livelihoods are most at stake in China's rural ethnic tourism industry the residents of village destinations Drawing on ethnographic research conducted in Ping'an a Zhuang village in Guangxi and Upper Jidao a Miao village in Guizhou Jenny Chio analyzes the myriad challenges and possibilities confronted by villagers who are called upon to do the work of tourism She addresses the shifting significance of migration and rural mobility the visual politics of tourist photography and the effects of touristic desires for exotic difference on village social relations In this way Chio illuminates the contemporary regimes of labor and leisure and the changing imagination of what it means to be rural ethnic and modern in China today Landscape

Perspectives Marc Antrop, Veerle Van Eetvelde, 2017-12-19 Climb a mountain and experience the landscape Try to grasp its holistic nature Do not climb alone but with others and share your experience Be sure the ways of seeing the landscape will be very different We experience the landscape with all senses as a complex dynamic and hierarchically structured whole The landscape is tangible out there and simultaneously a mental reality Several perspectives are obvious because of language culture and background Many disciplines developed to study the landscape focussing on specific interest groups and applications Gradually the holistic way of seeing became lost This book explores the different perspectives on the landscape in relation to its holistic nature We start from its multiple linguistic meanings and a comprehensive overview of the development of landscape research from its geographical origins to the wide variety of today's specialised disciplines and interest groups Understanding the different perspectives on the landscapes and bringing them together is essential in transdisciplinary approaches where the landscape is the integrating concept An Introduction to Cultural Ecology

Mark Q. Sutton, E. N. Anderson, 2020-08-26 This contemporary introduction to the principles and research base of cultural ecology is the ideal textbook for advanced undergraduate and beginning graduate courses that deal with the intersection of humans and the environment in traditional societies After introducing the basic principles of cultural anthropology environmental studies and human biological adaptations to the environment the book provides a thorough discussion of the history of and theoretical basis behind cultural ecology The bulk of the book outlines the broad economic strategies used by traditional cultures hunting gathering horticulture pastoralism and agriculture Fully explicated with cases illustrations and charts on topics as diverse as salmon ceremonies among Northwest Indians contemporary Maya agriculture and the sacred groves in southern China this book gives a global view of these strategies An important emphasis in this text is on the nature of contemporary ecological issues how peoples worldwide adapt to them and what the Western world can learn from their experiences A perfect text for courses in anthropology environmental studies and sociology

Adopting the Melody of Appearance: An Emotional Symphony within Seeing Landscapes

In some sort of used by monitors and the ceaseless chatter of fast communication, the melodic elegance and mental symphony developed by the published word frequently diminish in to the backdrop, eclipsed by the persistent noise and interruptions that permeate our lives. However, nestled within the pages of Seeing Landscapes a charming literary treasure overflowing with organic thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by a masterful musician of language, that fascinating masterpiece conducts readers on a psychological trip, well unraveling the hidden tunes and profound affect resonating within each cautiously constructed phrase. Within the depths with this emotional evaluation, we can investigate the book is main harmonies, analyze its enthralling writing fashion, and submit ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
