[With Plates, Including a Portrait.].* Leonard Cottrell, 1963 Rural Baths in Roman Britain Giacomo Savani, 2025-02-18 This book explores the function and socio cultural significance of rural bathhouses seeking to redefine our understanding of the relationships between these buildings and the identities of the communities residing in the countryside of Roman Britain The popularity of baths in antiquity and their archaeological distinctiveness have led both antiquarians and many modern scholars to take their function and more crucially their socio cultural significance for granted which is especially pronounced in the provincial context of Roman Britain By applying the theoretical framework of sensory archaeology Savani examines issues of receptivity social acceptance and cultural interaction broadening our understanding of the cultural and social transformations occurring in the province Focusing on two regions South East and Central South West England Savani uncovers the previously underappreciated role of rural baths in connecting a more diverse range of people than has been traditionally acknowledged It also underscores the critical importance of sensory experience in the acceptance of bathing practices in rural areas and the affective connections formed by various social groups around these practices Rural Baths in Roman Britain is an invaluable resource for scholars of both the archaeology and culture of Roman Britain as well as those working on processes of cultural interactions within the Roman provinces more broadly Seeing Roman Britain. With a Foreword by John Morris Leonard Cottrell, 1956 The Listener, 1929 The New Cambridge Medieval History: Volume 1, C.500-c.700 Paul Fouracre, Rosamond McKitterick, David Abulafia, 1995 Sample Text Seeing Roman Britain. Mathisen,2001-08-02 The sixteen papers in this volume investigate the links between law and society during Late Antiquity 260 640 CE On the one hand they consider how social changes such as the barbarian settlement and the rise of the Christian church resulted in the creation of new sources of legal authority such as local and vulgar law barbarian law codes and canon law On the other they investigate the interrelationship between legal innovations and social change for the very process of creating new law and new authority either resulted from or caused changes in the society in which it occurred The studies in this volume discuss interactions between legal theory and practice the Greek east and the Roman west secular and ecclesiastical Roman and barbarian male and female and Christian and non Christian including pagans Jews and Zoroastrians

The Development of Transportation in Modern England William T. Jackman,2019-04-24 Published in 1962 In offering this work as a modest contribution to our knowledge of the economic development of England from the standpoint of transportation the author must say in the first place that he has endeavoured to adhere rigidly to the subject in hand without making deviations into collateral fields Space, Movement and the Economy in Roman Cities in Italy and Beyond Frank Vermeulen, Arjan Zuiderhoek, 2021-05-26 How were space and movement in Roman cities affected by economic life What can the study of Roman urban landscapes tell us about the nature of the Roman economy These are the central questions addressed in this volume While there exist many studies of Roman urban space and of the Roman economy rarely have the two topics been investigated together in a sustained fashion In this volume an international team of archaeologists and historians focuses explicitly on the economics of space and mobility in Roman Imperial cities in both Italy and the provinces east and west Employing many kinds of material and written evidence and a wide range of methodologies the contributors cast new light both on well known and on less explored sites With their direct focus on the everyday economic uses of urban spaces and the movements through them the contributors offer a fresh and innovative perspective on the workings of Roman urban economies and on the debates concerning space in the Roman world This volume will be of interest to archaeologists and historians both those studying the Greco Roman world and those focusing on urban economic space in other periods and places as well as to other scholars studying premodern urbanism and urban economies Theorising Rome Rhiannon Evans, Sonya Wurster, 2021-03-10 Theorising Rome asks the questions what did Rome the physical location the political entity the literary construct mean in antiquity Equally what has it meant in subsequent centuries This volume addresses these broad questions in a number of complementary ways and each chapter shows that ancient Rome has been recontextualised and remade and in fact re theorised by successive historical periods and literary genres to perform their cultural labour The contributions here approach this question through the lens of Roman literary historical and philosophical texts as well as reception texts which create a new vision of Rome through adaptation allusion and critique Whether ancient or modern these studies show how Rome and Roman texts are recast for each new audience Seeing Roman Britain ... Cadet Edition. [With Plates.] Leonard Cottrell, 1964 Approaches to Disruptions and Interactions in Archaeology Penny Coombe, Ying Tung Fung, 2022-08-18 A collection of papers presented at the Graduate Archaeology at Oxford Conferences 2017 2019 The papers draw out different aspects of the key themes of interaction mobility entanglement and disruption amongst various communities and demonstrated through material culture relating to a range of time periods History as a Science Jan van der Dussen, 2020-05-11 Since its appearance in 1981 History as a Science by Jan van der Dussen has been welcomed as a coherent and comprehensive study of the many aspects of Collingwood's philosophy of history including its development and reception The book was the first to pay attention to Collingwood's unpublished manuscripts and to his work as an archaeologist and historian herewith opening up a new angle in Collingwood studies The republication of this volume meets an increasing demand to make the book available for future Collingwood scholars and people interested in Collingwood's philosophy The present edition of History as a Science includes updated references to the published manuscripts and an added preface

King Arthur Tony Sullivan, 2020-04-30 An investigation of the evidence for King Arthur based on the earliest written sources rather than later myths and legends This book differs from the usual Arthur theories in that it favors no particular conjecture simply analyses and clarifies the evidence presenting it all in chronological order Starting from Roman Britain the evidence shows how the legend evolved and at what point concepts such as Camelot Excalibur and Merlin were added It covers the historical records from the end of Roman Britain using contemporary sources such as they are from 400 800 including Gallic Chronicles Gildas and Bede It details the first written reference to Arthur in the Historia Brittonum c 800 and the later Annales Cambriae in the tenth century showing the evolution of the legend in later Welsh and French stories While not starting from or aiming at a specific person the book compares the possibility of Arthur being purely fictional with a historical figure alongside a list of possible suspects The evidence is presented and the reader is invited to make up their own mind before a discussion of the author's own assessment What impressed me about this book is Sullivan's passion for this subject and his willingness to go the extra mile to show both sides of the argument It was extremely fascinating to see how he treated this book like a criminal investigation using different fields of study to figure out the origins of the legend how it evolved and whether or not there was a king named Arthur Adventures of a Tudor Nerd
