Wilderson III, 2010-03-19 Red White one by an Indian director Skins Chris Eyre and one by a White director Monster s Ball Marc Foster These films present Red and Black people beleaguered by problems such as homelessness and the repercussions of incarceration They portray social turmoil in terms of conflict as problems that can be solved at least theoretically if not in the given narratives Wilderson maintains that at the narrative level they fail to recognize that the turmoil is based not in conflict but in fundamentally irreconcilable racial antagonisms Yet as he explains those antagonisms are unintentionally disclosed in the films non narrative strategies in decisions regarding matters such as lighting camera angles and sound Red Nation Rising Nick Estes, Melanie Yazzie, Jennifer Nez Denetdale, David Correia, 2021-07-06 Red Nation Rising is the first book ever to investigate and explain the violent dynamics of bordertowns Bordertowns are white dominated towns and cities that operate according to the same political and spatial logics as all other American towns and cities The difference is that these settlements get their name from their location at the borders of current day reservation boundaries which separates the territory of sovereign Native nations from lands claimed by the United States Bordertowns came into existence when the first US military forts and trading posts were strategically placed along expanding imperial frontiers to extinguish indigenous resistance and incorporate captured indigenous territories into the burgeoning nation state To this day the US settler state continues to wage violence on Native life and land in these spaces out of desperation to eliminate the threat of Native presence and complete its vision of national consolidation from sea to shining sea This explains why some of the most important Native led rebellions in US history originated in bordertowns and why they are zones of ongoing confrontation between Native nations and their colonial occupier the United States Despite this rich and important history of political and material struggle little has been written about bordertowns Red Nation Rising marks the first effort to tell these entangled histories and inspire a new generation of Native freedom fighters to return to bordertowns as key front lines in the long struggle for Native liberation from US colonial control This book is a manual for navigating the extreme violence that Native people experience in reservation bordertowns and a manifesto for indigenous liberation that builds on long traditions of Native resistance to bordertown violence The Blackness of Black William David Hart,2020-10-16 This book explores the relations among blackness antiblackness and Black people within the discourse of the blackness of black This critical discourse developed during the last two decades as scholars explored what Saidiya Hartman describes as the afterlife of slavery Hartman s concept which argues for a troubling continuity between the status of enslaved and emancipated Black people is the pivot between discursive tributaries and trajectories Tributaries of the discourse of the blackness of black comprise five foundational concepts Frantz Fanon s phobogenic blackness Orlando Patterson s social death Cedric Robinson s racial capitalism and the black radical tradition and Hortense Spillers flesh The book traces three trajectories within the afterlife of slavery Frank Wilderson s Afropessimism Fred Moten s generative blackness and Calvin Warren s black nihilism This ensemble of concepts enable us to understand what is at state in how we understand the relations among blackness antiblackness and Black people The Settler and the Savage R.
