Creating Subaltern Counterpublics A-gwi Sŏ, 2017 This is a study of a political and social movement instigated by older Korean women in Japan beginning in the 1990s

Koreans in Japan have occupied an unique position among ethnic minority groups. Until recently they constituted the largest group of foreign nationals yet they have been marginalized politically, socially, economically, and culturally. Korean women are doubly disadvantaged, treated as inferior to men by both Korean and Japanese society. Furthermore, the first generation of Korean women migrants were not educated as children, rendering them functionally illiterate and thus triply marginalized. Late in life when family and work responsibilities became less onerous, local authorities created educational opportunities which the women took up in unexpected numbers, overloading the facilities. The authorities' responses effectively re-marginalized them. The elderly Korean women took a stance and in the process reconstituted themselves as social and political actors. This book examines that self-transformation process. Series: Japanese Society Series Subject: Gender Studies Japanese Studies Korean Studies Migrant Studies Forced Displacement K. Grabska, L. Mehta, 2008-11-12 Uprootedness, exile, and forced displacement: be they due to conflict, persecution, or so-called development, are conditions which characterise the lives of millions across the globe. This book analyses a range of displacement situations including development oustees, refugees, and internally displaced persons. Globalizing Japan Ross E. Mouer, 2015 The Japanese people are again struggling with their nation's insularity. The Meiji Restoration and the end of the Asia Pacific War gave way to concerted efforts to connect the country with the outside world. As the Japanese economy emerged from two decades of stagnant growth, there was wide consensus that the society was increasingly grappling with the problems shared globally and that both its economy and internal policy debates would benefit from being more fully engaged in discourses and research activity occurring outside its borders. This book considers the efforts of policy makers to reorient Japan to the outside world as the nation enters the second decade of the 21st century. It discusses the strategies being pursued by Japan's policy makers: enhancing the involvement of the Japanese in global networks, improving English language skills, hiring more foreign labor, lifting the stature of tertiary education on internationally recognized league tables, creating favorable images of a Japanese cultured society abroad. The book considers the changing geopolitical landscape and the social backdrop against which such policies are being introduced, while also assessing the prospects that the Japanese will experience a third opening any time soon. Overall, the volume provides insight into some of the critical choices likely to shape Japan's interface with the outside world and the direction in which Japanese society moves during the next decade. Series: Japanese Society Subject: Politics Sociology Japanese Studies Asian Studies The Modern Family in Japan Chizuko Ueno, 2009 This award-winning book brings together Chizuko Ueno's groundbreaking essays on the rise and fall of the modern family in Japan. Combining historical, sociological, anthropological, and journalistic methodologies, Ueno—who is arguably the foremost feminist theoretician in Japan—delineates in vivid detail how the family has been changing in form and function in the last hundred years. In each chapter, Ueno introduces the reader to a different facet of modern Japanese family life, ranging from children who fantasize about being orphans to the elderly who confront pre-senescence.
