Coping With Loss Susan Nolen-Hoeksema,Judith Larson,Judith M. Larson,2013-01-11 Coping With Loss describes the many ways in which people cope with the death of someone they love Most earlier books on bereavement have fallen into two categories distillations of the clinical experience of individual therapists or collections of chapters reporting the results of empirical studies Each category is valuable but has tended to serve a narrow group of readers practitioners with particular theoretical orientations or researchers in quest of the latest findings Coauthored by a leading research psychologist and an experienced therapist who specializes in bereavement education and intervention this book is different The authors weave together the strands of theory research and clinical wisdom into a seamless and readable narrative While they discuss previous work they also present new data never before published from one of the largest studies of bereaved people ever conducted the Bereavement Coping Project Unlike most studies to date which focused on only one type of bereaved group usually widows or widowers the Bereavement Coping Project examined the experiences of several different groups during the first 18 months after the death The groups included those who had lost a spouse a parent an adult sibling or a child and those who had lost their significant other to cancer or cardiovascular disease on one hand as opposed to the stigmatized disease of AIDS on the other The book begins with a critical overview of theories of bereavement succeeding chapters explore in depth the impact of specific types of loss the impact of particular coping strategies on recovery the impact of social supports and religion and the special cases of children and of people who seem to grow and change for the better after a loss A final chapter considers implications for intervention with bereaved people Each chapter is richly illuminated with real life examples throughout and ends with a section called Voices in which bereaved people describe their various attempts to cope in their own words Insightful and informative Grief and the Healing Arts Sandra L. Bertman,2018-02-06 For nearly three decades Sandra Bertman has been exploring the power of the arts and belief symbols metaphors stories to alleviate psychological and spiritual pain not only of patients grieving family members and affected communities but also of the nurses clergy and physicians who minister to them Her training sessions and clinical interventions are based on the premise that bringing out the creative potential inherent in each of us is just as relevant perhaps more so as psychiatric theory and treatment models since grief and loss are an integral part of life Thus this work was compiled to illuminate the many facets that link grief counseling and creativity The multiple strategies suggested in these essays will help practitioners enlarge their repertoire of hands on skills and foster introspection and empathy in readers The Anatomy of Bereavement Beverley Raphael,2003-12-16 First published in 1985 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Living With Grief Kenneth J. Doka,2019-01-22 While we often discuss how we grieve rarely do we consider the places where we grieve Yet whether at work at school at worship or at home grief not only affects our moods and motivation but our ability to function and our relationships as well This book considers the ways that grief influences us in varied settings offering humane and practical suggestions to organizations such as workplaces schools or places of worship as to how they can assist griever in their midst struggling with illness and loss First published in 1999 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company

Dauz-Williams, Arthur R. Williams, 2000 Beyond Endurance Ronald J. Knapp PhD, 2005-01-31 No event is as traumatic as the death of a child Dr Knapp has interviewed over 155 families who experienced such a loss to determine how they coped or failed to cope This book presents the results of his research shedding light on constructive measures for responding to the tragedy and calling attention to the special needs of surviving family members Dr Knapp examines three types of death death occurring after a long illness sudden or unexpected death and death by murder Personal Care in an Impersonal World

John Morgan, 2020-11-25 The purpose of this volume is to ask and propose a positive answer to the question Can we attend to the personhood of individuals within systems and cultures which are mass oriented One of the most interesting changes in contemporary thinking has been the emphasis on the unique person While the distinction between a person a unique rational being and individual one of several similar things has long existed it is in the twentieth century that we seem to have become fully conscious of this distinction There is good reason for such as emphasis today Repeatedly in this century the case of the person was deemed less important than some policy Innocent persons slaughtered in the name of some ism political bombings and kidnappings and mass unemployment to name but a few The cause of our dehumanization seems to be the reduction of the individual person to a part of the political economic or religious system Death, Dying, and Mysticism

T. Cattoi, C. Moreman, G. C. Harcourt, 2015-04-01 This volume offers a sample of reflections from scholars and practitioners on the theme of death and dying from scholars and practitioners ranging from the Christian tradition to Hinduism Lacanian psychoanalysis while also touching on the themes of the afterlife and near death experiences Childhood Cancer Adolf E.

Christ, Kalman Flomenhaft, 2012-12-06 The past decade has brought extraordinary gains in the outlook for children stricken with cancer. Though cancer remains a leading cause of death for children and young adults, more victims of childhood cancer today will survive than will die. The therapeutic advances and the optimism they instill have prompted researchers and clinicians to analyze the impact of cancer upon young patients and their families and to devise more effective intervention strategies. Hope and survival juxtaposed with the continuing high mortality associated with certain forms of the illness add new challenges to management of the psychosocial aspects of cancer. To respond to these challenges we need research as rigorous as that which continues to make inroads in treating the physical illness. This specific concern for the needs of children suffering from cancer and their families has paralleled an increasing sensitivity on the part of the medical community and the public at large to the limitations of specialized high technology health care practices. Behavioral Assessment and Rehabilitation of the Traumatically Brain-Damaged Barry A. Edelstein, Eugene T. Couture, 2013-11-22 This book developed out of the editors' longstanding interest in the retraining of traumatically brain damaged adults and the management of their behavior by family members. A search for relevant experimental evidence to support the clinical use of behavioral principles for retraining which began in 1977 turned up little empirical support. Moreover, the literature on retraining was dispersed among a variety of journals published in various countries. Nowhere was there a compendium of literature that addressed issues of assessment and retraining. There was no place to turn if one wanted to move from a standard neuropsychological evaluation to the retraining of skill deficits revealed in the evaluation. We have attempted to edit a book that represents what we had hoped to find in the literature and could be used by professionals in clinical psychology, clinical neuropsychology, rehabilitation medicine, physical therapy, speech therapy, and other disciplines that address rehabilitation of brain damaged adults. A book that addresses assessment and rehabilitation issues and is sufficiently detailed to offer the reader a starting point in developing behavioral assessment and rehabilitation programs. The book contains conceptual foundations, reviews of research, descriptions of successful rehabilitation programs, and relatively detailed approaches to the retraining of specific skills. A shift from an assessment based practice to one encompassing both prescriptive assessment and treatment has become a recognized transition in the neuropsychological literature and was best articulated in an article by Gerald Goldstein in March of 1979.
