

A detailed botanical illustration of a grass plant, likely a species of Panicum, serves as the background for the book cover. The illustration shows the entire plant, including its roots, basal leaves, and several upright culms with terminal spikelets. To the left of the main plant, there are two enlarged details: a single seed (caryopsis) and a close-up of a spikelet's structure. The entire illustration is rendered in a dark green color against a lighter green background.
