Psycho Terrorism:

Preparing for the Psychological Consequences of Terrorism Institute of Medicine, Board on Neuroscience and Behavioral Health, Committee on Responding to the Psychological Consequences of Terrorism, 2003-09-26 The Oklahoma City bombing intentional crashing of airliners on September 11 2001 and anthrax attacks in the fall of 2001 have made Americans acutely aware of the impacts of terrorism These events and continued threats of terrorism have raised questions about the impact on the psychological health of the nation and how well the public health infrastructure is able to meet the psychological needs that will likely result Preparing for the Psychological Consequences of Terrorism highlights some of the critical issues in responding to the psychological needs that result from terrorism and provides possible options for intervention The committee offers an example for a public health strategy that may serve as a base from which plans to prevent and respond to the psychological consequences of a variety of terrorism events can be formulated The report includes recommendations for the training and education of service providers ensuring appropriate guidelines for the protection of service providers and developing public health surveillance for preevent and postevent factors related to psychological consequences Psychological Responses to the New Terrorism Simon Wessely, Valerii Krasnov, 2005

Terrorism is to create a state of terror and fear This book is concerned with the consequences of acts of terror and their impact on populations It describes what citizens professionals and governments can do to mitigate the consequences It focuses more on culture and place specific reactions than the timeless or universal trauma reactions The Psychology of Terrorism Director International Center for the Study of Terrorism and Associate Professor of Psychology John Horgan, JR, 2004-06 One of the leading psychologists in the field undertakes a comprehensive examination on one of the most important yet neglected areas in the study of terrorism The Psychology of Radicalization and Terrorism Willem Koomen, Joop Van Der Pligt, 2015-11-19 Terrorism and radicalization have a long history but in recent years their prominence has been a particularly conspicuous and influential feature of the global political landscape This important book presents an overview of the processes involved in radicalization and terrorism and introduces a systematic framework which captures the most crucial individual and social factors involved in determining these processes The authors begin by considering the possible role of prejudice economic deprivation and discrimination and the cognitive responses and emotions they can trigger Such responses tend in turn to increase the importance of group membership and promote intergroup differentiation and polarization a process which is often accompanied by more pronounced and more extreme religious and ideological beliefs The book also describes the role of cultural values and social climate in processes of radicalization as well as the role of personality factors and demographics such as age and marital status As for violent terrorist action itself this final most radical stage is elicited by a number of group factors such as groupthink isolation and leadership Certain cognitive mechanisms for example dehumanizing the target and attributing responsibility elsewhere can also provide excuses for violence The book explores why some groups turn to violence and others don't and it addresses processes of disengagement deradicalization programs and other methods used to inhibit the spread of radicalization and terrorism The Psychology of Radicalization and Terrorism takes a unique and systematic approach to a vital topic integrating knowledge from diverse literatures and using social psychology as a basis for comprehending human behaviour It will be essential reading for students and researchers from all disciplines seeking a greater understanding of terrorism and violent political conflict in all its forms Psycho-political Aspects of Suicide Warriors, Terrorism, and Martyrdom Jamshid A. Marvasti, 2008 In this book there is no intention to bury or to praise suicide bombers Instead the text explores the controversy regarding the double standards prejudice and distortion with the concepts of suicide bombers warriors terrorism and martyrdom Frequently the eyes of the beholders and the political religious orientation and loyalties to one's tribe color what someone perceives For example if you carry a bomb in your hand you are called a terrorist but if an F 16 carries bombs and kills civilians the pilot could be labeled a war hero or freedom fighter The contributors of this volume explore the controversial definitions of war crimes and terrorism from both sides eventually declaring that although news and history are written by both the victor and the loser the victor's media has more influence and dominance Major motivational elements for suicide bombers are identified as occupation invasion of the homeland psychic trauma and dissociation religion poverty perceived injustice shame and despair rage and revenge and cultural support The contributors further explore state sponsored terrorism the limiting of civil liberties and the psychological impact of war and terrorism on civilians Israeli and Palestinian children and western leaders A psychological autopsy of suicide bombers and the uniqueness of female participants as well as the failure of counterterrorism are discussed Research on the characteristics of homegrown worriers and warriors in the western Muslim population is presented Finally the inclusion of treatment methods of psychopharmacology and psychotherapy for traumatized victims of violence help give the reader a broad perspective of the future impact of this very complex topic
