High-resolution Autoradiography George C. Towe,1954 Autoradiography has been used only to a rather limited extent in metallurgical studies Probably the major deterring factor has been that the autoradiographic systems have not provided the high resolution required in many investigations A general discussion of the requirements for high resolution autoradiography is presented in this report including detecting layer as well as radioactive sample specifications The need for a thin photographic emulsion in close contact with the metal surface is emphasized The desirability of using favorable radiation e g low energy beta radioactivity is also discussed Physical Metallurgy Mr. Rohit Manglik,2024-07-26 the discipline of physical metallurgy has grown in the intervening 30 years Almost all the topics previously treated are still in evidence in this version which is approximately 50% bigger than the previous edition All the chapters have been either totally rewritten by new authors or thoroughly revised and expanded either by the third edition authors alone or jointly with new co authors Three chapters on new topics have been added dealing with dry corrosion oxidation and protection of metal surfaces the dislocation theory of the mechanical behavior of intermetallic compounds and most novel a chapter on polymer science for metallurgists which analyses the conceptual mismatch between metallurgists and polymer scientists way of looking at materials Special care has been taken throughout all chapters to incorporate the latest experimental research results and theoretical insights Several thousand citations to the research and review literature are included in this edition There is a very detailed subject index as well as a comprehensive author index The original version of this book has long been regarded as the standard text in physical metallurgy and this thoroughly rewritten and updated version will retain this status
