Railroad Fever Monica Halpern,2004 Presents a history of the building of the transcontinental railroad and its effects on American life By the 1840s daring Americans were trickling westward to begin a new life in the great wide open When gold was discovered in 1848 the promise of riches drew people by the thousands out to California But the journey was slow and dangerous since the best ways of travelling were by wagon and on foot During the railroad fever of the 1830s thousands of miles of track were laid mostly throughout the Northeast and the South Few had dreamt of extending this new travel westward but all it takes is a few Abraham Lincoln signed the Pacific Railroad Act in 1862 allowing for the start of the first transcontinental railroad Though construction problems and hard times confronted them American workers Chinese immigrants and former slaves pounded away through the rough geography of the western U S paving a path for the new train A day in the life of a railroad worker was not an easy one The work was backbreaking the conditions were terrible and workers were often faced with attack from Native Americans The building of the railroad turned into a great race between two companies the Central Pacific and the Union Pacific to see who could finish their part of the railroad faster The company that got farthest stood to make the most money The great race turned into a national pastime with reports of progress dominating the news Railroad Fever illuminates the struggles of the railroad worker the anger of the Plains Indians and the many changes in both American life and geography that were prompted by the railroad The completion of the transcontinental railroad left empty boomtowns across the country changed the ethnic face of America and of course created a new exciting and fast way of travel Like the other titles in the Crossroads America series Railroad Fever is illustrated with period paintings drawings and photographs Also included are a glossary and an index Through the Eyes of a Child Donna E. Sandler,2015-09-08 Experience the race of rails to link the country and meet the men behind this incredible feat in a riveting story about the building of the transcontinental railroad brought to life with archival photos In the 1850s gold fever swept the West but people had to walk sail or ride horses for months on end to seek their fortune The question of faster safer transportation was posed by national leaders But with 1 800 miles of seemingly impenetrable mountains searing deserts and endless plains between the Missouri River and San Francisco could a transcontinental railroad be built It seemed impossible Eventually two railroad companies the Central Pacific which laid the tracks eastward and the Union Pacific which moved west began the job In one great race between iron men with iron wills tens of thousands of workers blasted the longest tunnels that had ever been constructed built the highest bridges that had ever been created and finally linked the nation by two bands of steel changing America forever
