civilizations each diverging toward its own unique destination The Russian state portrays itself as defending the right of all civilizations to chart their own independent path of development and is having some success in using this logic to win allies around the world Paul Robinson recounts how ideas of inevitable convergence once dominated Russian thought as well but were gradually pushed out by civilizational theories He outlines where these theories came from what they propose and how they became popular Russia's World Order thereby reveals the true nature of today's New Cold War and the challenge that Russian civilizationism poses to the West

The Dial Francis Fisher Browne, Waldo Ralph Browne, Scofield Thayer, 1919
Roads to Glory Ronald P. Bobroff, 2006-02-22 Until now it has been accepted that the Turkish Straits the Russian fleet's gateway to the Mediterranean were a key factor in shaping Russian policy in the years leading to World War I Control of the Strains had always been accepted as the major priority of Imperial Russia's foreign policy. In this powerfully argued revisionist history, Ronald Bobroff exposes the true Russian concern before the outbreak of war: the containment of German aggression. Based on extensive new research, Bobroff provides fascinating new insights into Russia's state development before the revolution, examining the policies and personal correspondence of its policy makers.
