Toward a Trinitarian Theology of Liturgical Participation R. Gabriel Pivarnik,2013-01-01 Half a century after the Second Vatican Council called for the active participation of the laity in the liturgy a comprehensive theology of what liturgical participation actually means remains elusive While most sacramental studies have highlighted the role and action of Christ the conciliar reform and the theology that emanated from it call for a deeper trinitarian understanding of the liturgy and sacraments In this fascinating new work Gabriel Pivarnik identifies the major theological developments in the concept of active participation of the last century most notably in Mediator Dei and the Vatican II documents He also considers the reception of those developments Drawing especially on the work of Cipriano Vagaggini and Edward Kilmartin Pivarnik offers a lucid demonstration of how liturgical participation can be viewed in metaphysical soteriological and ecclesiological terms through the lens of a trinitarian narrative

Calvin, Participation, and the Gift J. Todd Billings,2007-11-15 Is the God of Calvin a fountain of blessing or a forceful tyrant Is Calvin s view of God coercive leaving no place for the human qua human in redemption These are perennial questions about Calvin s theology which have been given new life by Gift theologians such as John Milbank Graham Ward and Stephen Webb J Todd Billings addresses these questions by exploring Calvin s theology of participation in Christ He argues that Calvin s theology of participation gives a positive place to the human such that grace fulfils rather than destroys nature affirming a differentiated union of God and humanity in creation and redemption Calvin s trinitarian theology of participation extends to his view of prayer sacraments the law and the ecclesial and civil orders In light of Calvin s doctrine of participation Billings reframes the critiques of Calvin in the Gift discussion and opens up new possibilities for contemporary theology ecumenical theology and Calvin scholarship as well

Eternal God, Eternal Life Philip G. Ziegler, 2016-09-22 How ought Christian faith and theology understand the concept of human immortality today And what if anything might be distinctively Christian about such a concept The contributors to this volume explore how our thinking about the prospect of human immortality is decisively determined by what we receive of the limitless life of the triune God of the gospel and how our understanding of immortality is made concrete by the Christian hope in the resurrection of the body and the life everlasting Debates about how best to understand the eternal life of God are directly significant to how we can imagine the promise of eternal life While immortality is generally conceived to be a future qualification of human reality theological approaches to the question of personal immortality must investigate the difference that the hope and promise of such eternal life makes in the living of present day spiritual life as well as in our common moral and political existence To understand immortality as an eschatological gift of God requires that we take account of it as a formative factor at the foundations of the Christian life

Reclaiming Participation Cynthia Peters Anderson, 2014-11-01 In an era that oscillates regularly between nihilism and the erosion of moral vision on the one hand and pseudo gnostic myths of self apotheosis on the other the classical Christian claim of human participation in the divine as the story of the transformation of human life in its physical moral spiritual and eschatological dimensions takes on radical counter cultural color It is an affirmation that offers hope and meaning for humanity secured by God's participation in human life through Jesus Christ The Christological ground of this claim is crucial to secure and animate the argument of this text The author performs in this a retrieval of the Christological vision of the unification of the divine and the human in the single subject of Jesus Christ as the programmatic center point of human transformation and participation articulated particularly by Cyril of Alexandria The patristic pattern is used as a lens through which to examine and assess modern iterations those of Karl Barth and Hans Urs von Balthasar In this the author provides a critical updating of this vital classical theme annotating a vision of divine life opened up for created participation that can foster hope in the climes of contemporary life

Being in Christ Hans Burger, 2009-01-01 Being in Christ is a central theme in the message of the gospel It is central for understanding the relation of Christian believers and the church with Jesus Christ their Lord It determines the identity of a Christian It is helpful for understanding the presence of Christ and his salvation in the present It can be developed as an element of a theological ontology Finally it is a theme with a great integrating power In this book the theme being in Christ is analyzed in different perspectives The attention is focused on the reality of being in Christ its ontological implications First two representatives of the Reformed tradition are investigated the English Puritan John Owen and the Dutch Neo Calvinist Herman Bavinck Second a reconstruction of the Pauline and Johannine perspectives on being in Christ is provided Third the theme is examined in the work of the English ethicist Oliver O Donovan and the German Swiss theologian Ingolf U Dalferth In the final chapter the author gives his own systematic theological proposal of a concept of being in Christ

The Active Participation of the Faithful in the Eucharist on the Basis of Common Priesthood Stella Adamma Nneji, 2018-06-15

One of the significant points of the Second Vatican Council is its emphasis on the status of the lay faithful in the church which includes active participation in the life of faith The council spoke of the active participation of all the faithful in liturgical celebrations on the basis of the common priesthood of the faithful which is conferred during baptism and through which every believer shares in the priestly kingly and prophetic offices of Christ In this book Stella Nneji develops an ecclesiological critical reflection on the teaching of the Second Vatican Council with regard to active participation Focusing especially on the church as people of God Nneji shows how the idea of participation is not merely a passive action but an active one Based on the ecclesiological reflection on the church as people of God and its relevance for active participation she maintains that Vatican II's vision on active participation is relevant to the upbuilding of the body of Christ church This vision integrates a critical thinking especially regarding those places where the implementation of Vatican II's teachings seems difficult
