Sayyid, 2003-10 Breaking with the Arab centrism of Islamic studies Sayyid shows how the rise of Islamism or Islamic fundamentalism can only be understood in the context of Eurocentrism The book will be stimulating reading for courses in cultural studies Islamic studies and international relations

The Secular Contract Alex Schulman, 2011-06-23 The Secular Contract seeks to defend the European Enlightenment s secularization of political philosophy by promoting an understanding of Enlightenment secular liberalism and extending it to contemporary issues The work proposes that the Enlightenment united the secularizing trends that occurred at the time across all areas of knowledge into a secular contract for modern politics It argues that this was a normatively valuable enterprise whose aims and arguments need to be recovered today especially in light of the challenges faced by the West including fundamentalist Christianity in the US and radical Islam in Europe Looking at the works of many thinkers such as Hobbes Jefferson Madison Rousseau the book then shifts to the present day to argue for a different liberalism as suggested by such contemporary thinkers as William Galston or Stephen Macedo An engaging read The Secular Contract will appeal to anyone interested in political theory and the history of ideas      European Islam Samir

Amghar,Amel Boubekeur,Michael Emerson,2007 This book analyzes the place of the new Muslim minorities in society within the European Union The authors explore the root causes of rising tensions and conflict between the new immigrant population and native Europeans over issues of Muslim identity Islamist doctrines and Islamophobia They also provide integration models for the various EU countries and discuss the short and long range problems caused by socioeconomic discrimination against Muslims Contributors include Imane Karich International Crisis Group Brussels Isabelle Rigoni Paris VIII University Sara Silvestri Cambridge University and City University London Valeria Amiriaux European University Institute Florence Chris Allen University of Birmingham UK Tufyal Choudhury Durham University UK and Bernard Godard Ministry of Interior Paris      Liberation and Purity Chetan Bhatt,2023-05-05 First published in 1997 The rise of new religious movements has raised important questions about how race ethnicity and the lives of black minority communities in the West are to be understood In Liberation and purity Chetan Bhatt critically examines the ideas and organization of new Hindu and Islamic movements and relates this to contemporary debates in philosophy social theory and cultural studies He considers the creation of new traditions and new ethnicities by these movements and explores how ideas of purity pollution the body sexuality and gender are key themes in their ideas of emancipation Bhatt explores the relationship between right wing and progressive social movements in modern civil societies and examines the influence on these movements of new globally organized communications technologies      Religion and Civil Society David Herbert,2017-03-02 This book presents the first full length study of the relationship between religion and the controversial concept of civil society Across the world in the last two decades of the twentieth century religions re entered public space as influential discursive and symbolic systems apparently beyond the control of either traditional religious authorising institutions or states This differentiation of religion from traditional institutions and entry into secular public spheres carries both dangers and possible benefits for democracy Offering a fresh interdisciplinary approach to understanding religion in contemporary societies this book provides an invaluable resource for students and researchers in religious studies sociology politics and political philosophy theology international relations and legal studies Part one presents a critical introduction to the interaction between religion modernization and postmodernization in Western and non Western settings America Europe the Middle East and India focussing on discourses of human rights civil society and the public sphere and the controversial question of their cross cultural application Part two examines religion and civil society through case studies of Egypt Bosnia and Muslim minorities in Britain and compares Poland as an example of a Christian majority society that has experienced the public reassertion of religion

International Law and Islamic Law Mashood A. Baderin, 2017-07-05 The relationship between modern international law and Islamic law has raised many theoretical and practical questions that cannot be ignored in the contemporary study and understanding of both international law and Islamic law The significance and relevance of this relationship in both academic and practical terms especially after the terrorist attacks of 11 September 2001 is now well understood Recent international events in particular corroborate the need for a better understanding of the relationship between contemporary international law and Islamic law and how their interaction can be explored and improved to enhance modern international relations and international law The articles reproduced in this volume examine the issues of General Principles of International Law International Use of Force International Humanitarian Law International Terrorism International Protection of Diplomats International Environmental and Water Law Universality of Human Rights Women s Rights Rights of the Child Rights of Religious Minorities and State Practice The essays have been carefully selected to reflect as much as possible the different Islamic perspectives on each of these aspects of international law

Reframing 9/11 Jeff Birkenstein, Anna Froula, Karen Randell, 2010-05-13 A collection of analyses focusing on popular culture as a profound discursive site of anxiety and discussion about 9 11 and demystifies the day s events

and Multiculturalism in Northern England Shamim Miah, Pete Sanderson, Paul Thomas, 2020-06-02 This book challenges the narrative of Northern England as a failed space of multiculturalism drawing on a historically contextualised discussion of ethnic relations to argue that multiculturalism has been more successful and locally situated than these assumptions allow. The authors examine the interplay between race space and place to analyse how profound economic change, the evolving nature of the state, individual racism and the local creation and enactment of multiculturalist policies have all contributed to shaping the trajectory of ethnic faith identities and inter community relations at a local level. In doing so, the book analyses both change and continuity in discussion of and national local state policy towards ethnic relations particularly around the supposed segregation integration dichotomy and the ways in which racialised events are perceived and identities are created and reflected in state policy operations. Drawing on the authors' long involvement in empirical research policy and practice around ethnicity, race and racism in the Northern England, they effectively support critical and situated analysis of controversial racialised issues and set these geographically specific findings in the context of wider international experiences of and tensions around growing ethnic diversity in the context of profound economic and social changes. Islam and Controversy A. Mondal, 2014-11-03 Was Salman Rushdie right to have written The Satanic Verses? Were the protestors right to have done so? What about the Danish cartoons? This book examines the moral questions raised by cultural controversies and how intercultural dialogue might be generated within multicultural societies. International Human Rights and Islamic Law Mashood A. Baderin, 2003-09-11 This volume examines the important question of whether or not international human rights and Islamic law are compatible. It asks whether Muslim States can comply with international human rights law whilst adhering to Islamic law. The traditional arguments on this subject are examined and responded to from both international human rights and Islamic legal perspectives. The volume engages international human rights law in theoretical dialogue with Islamic law facilitating an evaluation of the human rights policy of modern Muslim States. International Human Rights and Islamic Law formulates a synthesis between these two extremes and argues that although there are differences of scope and application, there is no fundamental incompatibility between these two bodies of law. Baderin argues that their differences could be better addressed if the concept of human rights were positively established from within the themes of Islamic law rather than by imposing it upon Islamic law as an alien concept. Each article of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, as well as relevant articles of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women, are analysed in the light of Islamic law. The volume concludes that it is possible to harmonise the differences between international human rights law and Islamic law through the adoption of the margin of appreciation doctrine by international human rights treaty bodies and the utilization of the Islamic law doctrines of maq sid al shar ah, the overall objective of Shar ah and maslahah (welfare) by Muslim States in their interpretation and application of Islamic law respectively. Baderin asserts that Islamic law can serve as an important vehicle for the guarantee and enforcement of international human rights law in the Muslim world and the volume concludes with recommendations to that effect

The surge in divisive and far right politics and growing Islamophobia in Britain pose new challenges for Muslim advocacy organisations. British Muslim activism has taken centre stage in the public sphere as a result. Yet for over fifty years Muslim advocacy groups have worked to preserve religious identity, lobby the state and provide concerted responses to the political establishment. This is the first book to chart critically the national and global factors influencing the political mobilisation of British Muslim activists as Muslims. Khadijah Elshayyal traces the changes of thought, direction and method within Muslim identity politics after 1960, noting key organisations and turning points such as the Rushdie Affair, the 9/11 attacks, the 7/7 bombings and the current conflict in Syria. The book argues that the Rushdie Affair prompted new debate around the subject of freedom of expression, which has continued to be a point of contention ever since. Providing a history of the interaction between Muslim advocacy groups and the state and the impact of state policy on Muslim communities, Muslims Identity Politics shows that Muslim citizens continue to experience an equality gap and recommends where transformation and progress can be made. Based on primary sources and in-depth interviews, this book is a vital resource for government officials, policy makers and researchers interested in multiculturalism, Islamophobia and security issues in Britain.
