providing in Sir Peter Hall's words perhaps the most extraordinary case of economic development in the history of the world. The story of Singapore's remarkable achievements in the first half century after its independence is now widely known. In Planning Singapore: The Experimental City, Stephen Hamnett and Belinda Yuen have brought together a set of chapters on Singapore's planning achievements, aspirations and challenges which are united in their focus on what might happen next in the planning of the island state. Chapters range over Singapore's planning system, innovation and future economy, housing, biodiversity, water and waste, climate change, transport and the potential transferability of Singapore's planning knowledge. A key question is whether the planning approaches which have served Singapore so well until now will suffice to meet the emerging challenges of a changing global economy, demographic shifts, new technologies and the existential threat of climate change. Singapore as a global city is becoming more unequal and more diverse. This has the potential to weaken the social compact which has largely existed since independence and to undermine the social resilience undoubtedly needed to cope with the shocks and disruptions of the twenty-first century. The book concludes, however, that Singapore is better placed than most to respond to the challenges which it will certainly face thanks to its outstanding systems of planning and implementation, a proven capacity to experiment and a highly developed ability to adapt quickly, purposefully and pragmatically to changing circumstances.

Toward a Better Future Fredriksen Birger, Sing Kong Lee, Chor Boon Goh, 2008-04-18. Toward a Better Future provides a comprehensive analysis of education development in Singapore since 1965, giving particular attention to the strategic management that has enabled Singapore to transform its education and training system from one similar to that of many Sub-Saharan African countries four decades ago into one of the world's best performing systems. It is one of a pair of concurrently published books presenting materials originally developed for a 2006 study tour to Singapore and Vietnam for senior education officials from Cameroon, Ethiopia, Ghana, Lesotho, Madagascar and Mozambique. The second book, An African Exploration of the East Asian Education Experience, presents five country studies as well as regional comparative analyses highlighting insights gained during the study tour and putting them in the context of Sub-Saharan Africa. Together, the two books aim to foster knowledge exchange between Sub-Saharan African and East Asian countries on good practices in the design and implementation of education policies and programs. By facilitating the cross-country fertilization of ideas between two regions with relatively limited contact in the past, these books fill a clear gap in the current literature on development practice in education.

Managing Global Risks in the Urban Age Yee-Kuang Heng, 2016-03-03. The first full-length exposition of what it terms a global city/global risks nexus, this volume crosses disciplinary boundaries to draw upon research from Security Studies, Geography, Sociology and Urban Studies. Innovative in its approach, integrating theories about Global Cities with those positing a Global Risk Society, Yee Kuang Heng positions this research in the midst of two concurrent global trends that will gain more significance in coming years. The world is experiencing the consequences of not only rapid globalisation but also urbanization. In 2008, the UN declared that more than half the world's population was now urban. At the same time, highly connected global cities like New York, London, Tokyo, and Singapore also face rapidly spreading global risks such as pandemics and financial crises. Unique in developing a typology of global risks that threaten a global city like Singapore, beyond its Asian focus, the book also draws out thematic and policy lessons pertinent to other global cities. Global cities do not simply materialize. They are dependent on a range of stakeholders at various levels that produce and reproduce its command and control capabilities in the face of global risks. Singapore's experiences managing global risks in the financial, aviation, and maritime domains are common concerns shared by many countries and cities that have or aspire to develop similar critical infrastructure.

Contractual Procedures in the Construction Industry Allan Ashworth, Srinath Perera, 2018-03-13. This 7th edition aims to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the subject and reinforces the changes that are taking place within the construction industry. The book looks at contract law within the context of construction contracts; it examines the different procurement routes that have evolved over time and the particular aspects relating to design and construction, lean methods of construction, and the advantages and disadvantages of PFI, PPP, and its variants. It covers the development of partnering, supply chain management, design and build, and the way that clients and professions have adapted to change in the procurement of buildings and engineering projects. This book is an indispensable companion for students taking undergraduate courses in Building and Surveying, Quantity Surveying, Construction Management, and Project Management. It is also suitable for students on HND/C courses in Building and Construction Management, as well as foundation degree courses in Building and Construction Management. Key features of the new edition include: A revised chapter covering the concept of value for money in line with the greater emphasis on added value throughout the industry today; A new chapter covering developments in information technology applications, building information modelling, blockchains, data analytics, smart contracts, and others; and construction procurement. Deeper coverage of the strategies that need to be considered in respect of contract selection; Improved discussion of sustainability and the increasing importance of resilience in the built environment; Concise descriptions of some of the more important construction case laws. New Horizons for a Data-Driven Economy José María Cavanillas, Edward Curry, Wolfgang Wahlster, 2016-04-04.
