genuine or not those conflicts and children's involvement in them are understood within the same racist colonial and ethnocentric stereotypes about Africa that have been privileged in Western thought and the Western moral political imagination for centuries. Thus in studying African child soldier narratives this book provides an alternative reading of novels whose settings feature African ethnopolitical conflicts such as in Sierra Leone Liberia Congo Brazzaville Nigeria notable for their exploitation of children for military ends. The author maintains that these works are significant in the varying ways they reify and challenge the Western ideas of child and childhood as well as privilege child soldiers as social actors whose intricate makeups disavow being simply understood as innocent victims or irredeemable perpetrators of atrocities.

Dialogic Formations Marie-Cécile Bertau, Miguel M. Gonçalves, Peter T. F. Raggatt, 2013-01-01. This volume understands itself as an invitation to follow a fundamental shift in perspective away from the self-contained I of Western conventions and towards a relational self where development and change are contingent on otherness. In the framework of Dialogical Self Theory Hermans Hermans Gieser 2012 it is precisely the forms of interaction and exchange with others and with the world that determine the course of the self's development. The volume hence addresses dialogical processes in human interaction from a psychological perspective bringing together previously separate theoretical traditions about the self and about dialogue within the innovative framework of Dialogical Self Theory. The book is devoted to developmental questions and so broaches one of the more difficult and challenging topics for models of a pluralist self: the question of how the dynamics of multiplicity emerge and change over time. This question is explored by addressing ontogenetic questions directed at the emergence of the dialogical self in early infancy as well as microgenetic questions addressed to later developmental dynamics in adulthood. Additionally development and change in a range of culture-specific settings and practices is also examined including the practices of mothering of migration and cross-cultural assimilation and of doing psychotherapy.
