 FAO’s Increasing smallholder productivity and profitability ISPP project funded by the United States Agency for International Development USAID and implemented by FAO in Kenya had the objective to improve livelihoods through enhanced productivity market linkages and better nutrition. The evaluation assessed the relevance of the project and the achievement and sustainability of results. The evaluation found increased technical capacity among farmers but significant limitations to apply the knowledge. Increased access to diverse types of fruits and vegetables at household level was reported. Anecdotal evidence shows change of dietary habits. Farmers were trained on contract farming negotiation skills marketing strategies financial access and agro entrepreneurship but access to markets remained a challenge across all value chains promoted and equitability of support services could not be established. For future similar projects the recommendations include i the establishment of a community based collaboration platform to foster long term sustainability ii framework and guidelines for gender mainstreaming iii enhancing operational transparency and adaptive management iv exit strategy with sustainability action plan v comprehensive support for access to markets and vi focus on monitoring learning and evaluability when designing and implementing reporting mechanisms
