must reading for anyone coping directly with the attitudes beliefs and behaviors that are destroying our environment and putting our lives in jeopardy Topics include Healthy design Restorative environments Links to urban planning Contaminated environments Women s issues Environments for aging Climate weather and crime The history and future of disaster research Children s environments Personal space in a digital age Community planning Environmental Psychology Linda Steg, Agnes E. van den Berg, Judith I. M. de Groot, 2012-04-09 Environmental Psychology An Introduction offers a research based introduction to the psychological relationship between humans and their built and natural environments and discusses how sustainable environments can be created to the benefit of both people and nature Explores the environment s effects on human wellbeing and behaviour factors influencing environmental behaviour and ways of encouraging pro environmental action Provides a state of the art overview of recent developments in environmental psychology with an emphasis on sustainability as a unifying principle for theory research and interventions While focusing primarily on Europe and North America also discusses environmental psychology in non Western and developing countries Responds to a growing interest in the contribution of environmental psychologists to understanding and solving environmental problems and promoting the effects of environmental conditions on health and wellbeing Psychology and Environmental Change Raymond S. Nickerson, 2002-12-18 This book stimulates thinking on the topic of detrimental environmental change and how research psychologists can help to address the problem In addition to reporting environmentally relevant psychological research the author identifies the most pressing questions from an environmental point of view Psychology and Environmental Change focuses on ways in which human behavior contributes to the problem deals with the assessment and change of attitudes and with studies of change of behavior proposes ways in which psychological research can contribute to making technology and its products more environmentally benign and introduces topics such as consumption risk assessment cost benefit and tradeoff analyses competition negotiation and policymaking and how they relate to the objective of protecting the environment Encouraging Sustainable Behavior Hans C.M. van Trijp, 2013-08-15 Increasingly it is being recognized that consumer behavior may be a key trigger in the march toward sustainable development Several lines of psychological theory and approaches have been developed relatively independently each of which may provide major implications and action points on how consumers might be moved toward more sustainable behavior This book is the first that brings together this variety of perspectives and theoretical angles around the common ambition of sustainable development The contributors are all leading social scientists in the field of consumer behavior who met the challenge to sketch out their theoretical perspectives but also to go beyond their normal theorizing and think out of the box in order to show how these theoretical perspectives might be made actionable in terms of key managerial and policy perspectives toward sustainable development The result is a book that shows a wealth of information and approaches the question of how to encourage sustainable behavior from a myriad of divergent perspectives This should stimulate scientists and policy makers alike to find similarities differences and synergies between state of the art psychological thinking about how to most effectively stimulate sustainable consumer behavior

Handbook of Environmental Psychology and Quality of Life Research Ghazlane Fleury-Bahi, Enric Pol, Oscar Navarro, 2016-08-12 This Handbook presents a broad overview of the current research carried out in environmental psychology which puts into perspective quality of life and relationships with living spaces and shows how this original analytical framework can be used to understand different environmental and societal issues Adopting an original approach this Handbook focuses on the links with other specialties in psychology especially social and health psychology together with other disciplines such as geography architecture sociology anthropology urbanism and engineering Faced with the problems of society which involve the quality of life of individuals and communities it is fundamental to consider the relationships an individual has with his different living spaces This issue of the links between quality of life and environment is becoming increasingly significant with at a local level problems resulting from different types of annoyances such as pollution and noise while at a global level there is the central question of climate change with its harmful consequences for humans and the planet How can the impact on well being of environmental nuisances and threats for example natural risks pollution and noise be reduced How can the quality of life within daily living spaces home cities work environments be improved Why is it important to understand the psychological issues of our relationship with the global environment climatic warming ecological behaviours This Handbook is intended not only for students of various disciplines geography architecture psychology town planning etc but also for social decision makers and players who will find in it both theoretical and methodological perspectives so that psychological and environmental dimensions can be better taken into account in their working practices
