Fiction and Society in the Age of Pushkin William Mills Todd,1986 Todd describes the ideology of the educated westernized gentry then charts the possibilities for literary life first patronage the salons popular literature then rapid emergence of an incipient literary profession He explores the interactions of literature and society as writers discovered their own milieu and were discovered by it

Solitude and Society in the Works of Herman Melville and Edith Wharton Linda C. Cahir,1999-02-28 The interplay between solitude and society was a particularly persistent theme in nineteenth century American literature though writers approached this theme in different ways Poe explored the metaphysical significance of isolation and held solitude in high esteem Hawthorne viewed the theme in moral terms and examined the obligation of each individual to the larger community and Emerson maintained that the contradictory states of self reliance and solidarity are fundamental to human happiness Herman Melville emerged with an ontological response to this issue Questioning the nature of being he argued that humans are essentially isolated creatures While he grants that we are free to choose how we conduct our lives whether in solitude or in society we cannot escape the essential condition of our alienation Thus in Moby Dick he coins the term Isolato to signify the inherent separateness of all individuals Writing some fifty years later Edith Wharton reached the same conclusion This book argues that Wharton s views on solitude and society were strongly parallel to those of Melville Scholars have generally held that Wharton was primarily influenced by the great English French and Russian writers of the nineteenth century and that with the exception of Walt Whitman Ralph Waldo Emerson and Henry James she neglected the influence of American literature almost entirely This study demonstrates that Wharton read a significant portion of Melville s writings that she reflected on the nature and achievement of his works and that her consideration of his importance emerged during very significant moments in her life when she was forced to grapple with her own place as an individual in relation to a larger community Though Melville and Wharton initially seem disparate this book shows that they had much in common By studying the two authors side by side this volume reveals that they shared a similar way of seeing the world particularly with respect to their considerations of solitude and society Through their solitary characters Melville and Wharton question the relationship of self and society and thus engage a universal problem of special interest to the nineteenth century Literature and Society in Imperial Russia, 1800-1914, 1978-06 Ranging in topic from general discussions of literary theory to close readings of well known literary works these nine papers address nearly every literary movement in nineteenth and early twentieth century Russia and a number of major writers including Pushkin Gogol Turgenev and Dostoevsky Four kinds of issues are addressed theoretical problems in the relationship of literature and society the reading public the rhetoric and ideologies of writers and critics and the relationship between fictional and social worlds In confronting some of the ways in which the social and literary aspects of Russian culture have imposed themselves upon each other this volume seeks an approach to Russian literature that neglects neither the dynamics of social interaction nor the forms and traditions of literature The contributors are Robert L. Belknap Jeffrey Brooks Edward J. Brown Donald Fanger Jean Franco Robert Louis Jackson Hugh McLean Victor Ripp and William Mills Todd III
