Imagine No Possessions Christina Kiaer, 2005 These artists heeding the call of Constructivist manifestos to abandon the nonobjective painting and sculpture of the early Russian avant garde and enter into Soviet industrial production aimed to work as artist engineers to produce useful objects for everyday life in the new socialist collective Kiaer shows how these artists elaborated on the theory of the socialist object as comrade in the practice of their art They broke with the traditional model of the autonomous avant garde Kiaer argues in order to participate more fully in the political project of the Soviet state She analyzes Constructivism's attempt to develop modernist forms to forge a new comradely relationship between human subjects and the mass produced objects of modernity BOOK JACKET The Artist as Producer Maria Gough, 2005-05-02 The Artist as Producer confronts the problem of making a politics with art Gough's balanced rigor in mining obscure archives on the one hand while performing brilliant readings of recalcitrant artworks on the other gives her account of Constructivism's utopian promise and less than utopian outcome great texture She has produced something very rare an art historical study that not only adds to our knowledge but captures the intense poignancy of modern art's serious ambition to undertake a revolution of and with form David Joselit Professor History of Art Yale University To see a sculptor plunging into the politics and the cultural politics of the factory floor is a rare sight indeed in art history It takes immense historical discipline to do it justice Maria Gough takes the author as producer question dear to Marxist aesthetics think of Walter Benjamin but think also of Trotsky of Gramsci and raises it into new relevance The question always was and is a motor This book shows us beautifully how and why Molly Nesbit Professor of Art Vassar College The Artist as Producer is a remarkable and impressive piece of scholarship which challenges existing assumptions about Soviet Constructivism and demands that we rethink the movement in its entirety Christina Lodder author of Russian Constructivism Christina Lodder, 1983 One of the most exciting movements in 20th century art Russian constructivism radically reassessed the role of the artist and his work Here Lodder provides a detailed account of this complex movement and the reverberations it had on Western culture The Struggle for Utopia Victor Margolin, 1997 Focusing on the difficult relationship between art and social change Margolin brings important new insights to our understanding of the avant garde's role in a period of great political complexity Soviet Salvage Catherine Walworth, 2017-10-10 In Soviet Salvage Catherine Walworth explores how artists on the margins of the Constructivist movement of the 1920s rejected elitist media and imagined a new world knitting together avant garde art imperial castoffs and everyday life Applying anthropological models borrowed from Claude Lévi-Strauss Walworth shows that his mythmaker typologies the engineer and bricoleur illustrate respectively the canonical Constructivists and artists on the movement's margins who deployed a wide range of clever make-do tactics Walworth explores the relationships of Nadezhda Lamanova Esfir Shub and others with Constructivists such as Aleksei Gan Varvara Stepanova and Aleksandr Rodchenko Together the work of these artists reflected the chaotic and often contradictory zeitgeist of the decade from 1918 to 1929 and redefined the concept of mass production Reappropriated fragments of a former enemy era provided a wide range of play and possibility for these artists and the resulting propaganda porcelain film fashion and architecture tell a broader story of the unique political and economic pressures felt by their makers An engaging multidisciplinary study of objects and their makers during the Soviet Union's early years this volume highlights a group of artists who hover like free radicals at the border of existing art historical discussions of Constructivism and deepens our knowledge of Soviet art and material culture Constructive Strands in Russian Art, 1914-1937 Christina Lodder, 2005 Christina Lodder's collection of articles spanning two decades explores the Russian avant garde's response to the 1917 Revolution and its influence on art across Europe Updated with new notes reflecting recent research it offers insights into this dynamic period *Russian Constructivism. implications The reception of the exhibition within artistic circles in Germany Europe the United States and Japan in the 1920s is addressed as well as the disposition of many of the works exhibited The combination of longer thematic essays and short features along with reproductions of newly identified works and a selection of unpublished archival materials make this book valuable to both a scholarly and a general readership

Reclaiming and Redefining American Exhibitions of Russian Art Roann Barris,2023-08-23 This book examines the history of American exhibitions of Russian art in the twentieth century in the context of the Cold War Because this history reflects changes in museological theory and the role of governments in facilitating or preventing intercultural cooperation it uncovers a story that is far more complex than a chronological listing of exhibition names and art works Roann Barris considers questions of stylistic appropriations and influences and the role of museum exhibitions in promoting international and artistic exchanges Barris reveals that Soviet and American exchanges in the world of art were extensive and persistent despite political disagreements before during and after the Cold War It also reveals that these early exhibitions communicated contradictory and historically invalid pictures of the Russian or Soviet avant garde The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history museum studies and Russian studies

Shiner,2001 Larry Shiner challenges our conventional understandings of art and asks us to reconsider its history entirely arguing that the category of fine art is a modern invention and that the lines drawn between art and craft emerged only as the result of key European social transformations during the long eighteenth century Publisher's description

Drawing the Unbuildable Nerma Cridge,2015-06-12 Architecture is conventionally seen as being synonymous with building In contrast this book introduces and defines a new category the unbuildable The unbuildable involves projects that are not just unbuilt but cannot be built This distinct form of architectural project has an important and often surprising role in architectural discourse working not in opposition to the buildable but frequently complementing it Using well known examples of early Soviet architecture Tatlin's Tower in particular Nerma Cridge demonstrates the relevance of the unbuildable how it relates to current notions of seriality copying and reproduction and its implications for contemporary practice and discourse in the computational age At the same time it offers a fresh view of our preconceptions and expectations of early Soviet architecture and the Constructivist Movement
