Connecting China, Latin America, and the Caribbean Enrique Dussel Peters, James A. Cook, Joseph S. Alter, 2024-02-13. A long history of migration trade and shared interests links China to Latin America and the Caribbean. Over the past twenty years, China has increased direct investment and restructured trade relations in the region. In addition, Chinese public sector enterprises, private companies and various branches of the central government have planned, developed and built a large number of infrastructure projects in Latin America and the Caribbean, such as dams, roads, railways, energy grids, security systems, telecommunication networks, hospitals and schools. These projects have had a profound impact on local environments and economies and help shape the lived experiences of individuals. Each chapter in this volume examines how the impact of these infrastructure projects varies in different countries, focusing on how they produce new forms of global connectivity between various sectors of the economy and the resulting economic and cultural links that permeate everyday life.

China in Argentina Máximo Badaró, 2022-01-31. This is the first book to shed light on the growing presence, influence and expansion of China in the daily life of Argentina. While most previous academic studies focus on the geopolitical and macroeconomics dimensions of the relations between Argentina and China, this book shows at a micro-social level the multiple facets of the economic, political and social influence of China in Argentina. The book presents ethnographic studies of encounters of actors and negotiation of identities from Argentina and China in companies, schools, restaurants, hospitals, districts, public and private institutions in Argentina. Themes discussed in the ethnographies include identity struggle and strategic uses of culture in Buenos Aires's Chinatown, teaching Chinese as the first foreign language or teaching it as a heritage language in a bilingual school, the contested production of images of Chinese authenticity in Chinese restaurants, the connections and contestations between so-called Western medicine and so-called Chinese Traditional Medicine and the conflictive relations between Chinese expatriate bosses of Chinese state-owned enterprises and their Argentinean employees.
