Shanghai 1925 Urban Nationalism And The Defense Of Foreign Privilege:

Shanghai, 1925 Nicholas Rowland Clifford, 1979 Shanghai 1925 Nicholas R. Clifford, 1979 The Nationalist Revolution in China, 1923-1928 C. Martin Wilbur, 1984-11-29 This lively history of China's Nationalist revolution tells the story of a small group of Chinese patriots headed by Sun Yat sen until his death in 1925 They mobilised men money and propaganda to create a provincial base from which they launched a revolutionary military campaign to unify the country end imperialist privilege and bring the Kuomintang to power Soviet Russia induced the fledgling Chinese Communist Party to join the effort and sent money arms military and political experts to guide the revolution But there was a fatal flaw in this co operation and when the fighting was over the remnant Communist Party had been driven underground the Russian experts had been expelled and a faction riven Nationalist Party led by Chiang Kai shek could claim to be China's new government This study of a key period in China's history reprinted from Volume 12 of The Cambridge History of China is solidly based in Chinese Russian and Western languages sources Japan and Britain in Shanghai, 1925-31 H. Goto-Shibata, 1995-11-17 In Shanghai in 1925 the shooting by a British policeman of Chinese demonstrators developed into a full scale anti British movement while in 1932 Japan bombarded the Chinese areas of Shanghai The book examines how the relations between China Britain and Japan in Shanghai changed over time during the period It investigates the economic aspect of history and businessmen's perceptions as well as the diplomatic and military aspects because economic expansion was one of the most important objectives of Japan in the 1920s Government, Imperialism and Nationalism in China Chihyun Chang, 2013-08-06 The Chinese Maritime Customs Service which was led by British staff is often seen as one of the key agents of Western imperialism in China the customs revenue being one of the major sources of Chinese government income but a source much of which was pledged to Western banks as the collateral for and interests payments on massive loans This book however based on extensive original research considers the lower level staff of the Chinese Maritime Customs Service and shows how the Chinese government struggling to master Western expertise in many areas pursued a deliberate policy of encouraging lower level staff to learn from their Western superiors with a view to eventually supplanting them a policy which was successfully carried out The book thereby demonstrates that Chinese engagement with Western imperialists was in fact an essential part of Chinese national state building and that what looked like a key branch of Chinese government delegated to foreigners was in fact very much under Chinese government control From War to Nationalism Arthur Waldron, 2003-10-16 This book investigates the warlord period in China focusing on the pivotal year 1924 A Protestant Church in Communist China John Craig William Keating, 2012-02-16 Freedom of religious belief is guaranteed under the constitution of the People's Republic of China but the degree to which this freedom is able to be exercised remains a highly controversial issue Much scholarly attention has been given to persecuted underground groups such as Falun but one area that remains largely unexplored is the relationship between officially registered churches and the communist government

This study investigates the history of one such official church Moore Memorial Church in Shanghai This church was founded by American Methodist missionaries By the time of the 1949 revolution it was the largest Protestant church in East Asia running seven day a week programs As a case study of one individual church operating from an historical rather than theological perspective this study examines the experience of people at this church against the backdrop of the turbulent politics of the Mao and Deng eras It asks and seeks to answer questions such as were the people at the church pleased to see the foreign missionaries leave Were people forced to sign the so called Christian manifesto Once the church doors were closed in 1966 did worshipers go underground Why was this particular church especially chosen to be the first re opened in Shanghai in 1979 What explanations are there for its phenomenal growth since then A considerable proportion of the data for this study is drawn from Chinese language sources including interviews personal correspondence statistics internal church documents and archives many of which have never previously been published or accessed by foreign researchers The main focus of this study is on the period from 1949 to 1989 a period in which the church experienced many ups and downs restrictions and limitations The Mao era in particular remains one of the least understood and seldom written about periods in the history of Christianity in China This study therefore makes a significant contribution to our evolving understanding of the delicate balancing act between compromise co operation and compliance that categorizes church state relations in modern China

Asian Department Stores Kerrie L. MacPherson, 2013-12-16 In this pioneering study of the development of the Asian department store economists anthropologists and historians examine various aspects of retailing business organization networking and consumerism in the expanding economies of Asia

The Jiangyin Mission Station Lawrence D. Kessler, 2018-06-15 Lawrence Kessler uses the Jiangyin mission station in the Shanghai region of China to explore Chinese American cultural interaction in the first half of the twentieth century He concludes that the Protestant missionary movement was welcomed by the Chinese not because of the religious message it spread but because of the secular benefits it provided Like other missions the Jiangyin Station which was sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Wilmington North Carolina combined evangelism with social welfare programs and enjoyed a respected position within the local community By 1930 the station supported a hospital and several schools and engaged in anti opium campaigns and local peacekeeping efforts In many ways however Christianity was a disruptive force in Chinese society and Kessler examines Chinese ambivalence toward the mission movement the relationship between missions and imperialism and Westerners response to Chinese nationalism He also addresses the Jiangyin Station s close ties to and impact upon its supporting church in Wilmington

Foreigners and Foreign Institutions in Republican China Anne-Marie Brady, Douglas Brown, 2013 Republican China attracted an uncommon diversity of foreign interests groups and individuals which included missionaries adventurers diplomats academics humanitarians and refugees as well as hedonists and tourists By exploring the diverse nature of foreign activities in Republican China this book complicates the dominant narratives of the imperialistic foreigner and Chinese victim and moves beyond the depiction of foreigners as privileged and the Chinese as simply weak The spaces and relationships examined in the essays in this volume reveal a complex series of interactions between foreigners and the people of China which go far beyond one way transmission or exploitation Indeed this book examines how diverse and sometimes seemingly peripheral foreign individuals and communities influenced literature education trade sexual morality warfare and architecture in China and in the process were themselves profoundly changed in ways that are as remarkable as those experienced by the Chinese they had come to observe meet exploit conquer assist or change Bringing together the work of a diverse group of scholars on Republican China this edited volume adopts a uniquely multi disciplinary approach to the study of foreigners in China and utilises the perspectives of historiography literary studies cultural studies sociology anthropology and political science As such this interesting and innovative book will be of great interest to students and scholars from diverse fields including Chinese and global history politics and international relations Chinese studies literary studies and gender studies
