Lady in her adopted land Matola became one of Central America's greatest wildlife defenders. And when powerful outside forces conspired with the local government to build a dam that would flood the nesting ground of the last scarlet macaws in Belize, Sharon Matola was drawn into the fight of her life. In The Last Flight of the Scarlet Macaw, award-winning author Bruce Barcott chronicles Sharon Matola's inspiring crusade to stop a multinational corporation in its tracks. Ferocious in her passion, she and her confederates, a ragtag army of courageous locals and eccentric expatriates, endure slander and reprisals and take the fight to the courtroom and the boardroom from local village streets to protests around the world. As the dramatic story unfolds, Barcott addresses the realities of economic survival in Third World countries, explores the tension between environmental conservation and human development, and puts a human face on the battle over globalization. In this marvelous and spirited book, Barcott shows us how one unwavering woman risked her life to save the most beautiful bird in the world. Barcott's compelling narrative is suspenseful right up to the last moment. Publisher's Weekly: An engrossing but sad account of a brave and quirky champion of nature. Kirkus: A riveting account of one woman's fight to save one of the last bastions of an endangered species. Barcott writes of international politics, ecology, and endangered species and human relations with equal facility. This real page-turner of narrative nonfiction is hard to put down. Booklist: Spix's Macaw. Tony Juniper, 2004-11-16. Spix's Macaw tells the story of a unique band of brilliant blue birds who talk, fall in love, and grieve, struggling against extinction. By the second half of the twentieth century, the birds had become more valuable than heroin, worth thousands of dollars on the black market. In 1990, only one was found to be living in the wild, and an emergency international rescue operation was launched, calling on private collectors to come forward with their birds to mate with the last wild Spix's. In a breathtaking display of stoicism and endurance, the loneliest bird in the world had lived without a mate for fourteen years, outwitting predators and poachers. Would he take to a new companion? Like humans, Spix's Macaws can't be forced to love, but the stakes were as high as they could be: the survival of one of the world's most beautiful birds. BOOK JACKET Consciousness and Cognition. Henri Cohen, Brigitte Stemmer, 2011-10-10. What were the circumstances that led to the development of our cognitive abilities from a primitive hominid to an essentially modern human? The answer to this question is of profound importance to understanding our present nature. Since the steep path of our cognitive development is the attribute that most distinguishes humans from other mammals, this is also a quest to determine human origins. This collection of outstanding scientific problems and the revelation of the many ways they can be addressed indicates the scope of the field to be explored and reveals some avenues along which research is advancing. Distinguished scientists and researchers who have advanced the discussion of the mind and brain contribute state-of-the-art presentations of their field of expertise. Chapters offer speculative and provocative views on topics such as body culture, evolution, feelings, genetics, history, humor, knowledge, language, machines, neuroanatomy, pathology, and perception. This book will appeal to researchers and students in cognitive neuroscience, experimental psychology, cognitive science, and philosophy. Includes a contribution by

Noam Chomsky one of the most cited authors of our time
