Strategic Shifts between Business Types Katrin Susanne Mühlfeld, 2012-12-06 The range of products and services that are traded on business to business markets is very broad It encompasses such heterogeneous goods as standardized software machine tools and power stations Against this background of heterogeneity the development of undifferentiated one for all marketing programmes is neither promising from the practitioner s perspective nor consistent with an application oriented approach in marketing science Yet at the same time the pitfalls of overemphasizing the particularities of individual transactions which lead to a lack of generalizability are to be avoided As a response to this dilemma various conceptions for systematizing transactions on business to business markets have been developed in the past years. Co on to all of these concepts which are rather varied in terms of their methodology are the objectives of identifying meaningful types of transaction processes usually referred to as transaction or business types and of deriving corresponding recommendations to guide marketing practice. Co on to all of them is however also a deficit. The approaches presented to date take into account only the heterogeneity that prevails at a certain point in time. They do not capture the potential change of market offerings over time that is the heterogeneity that arises from shifts between the different types in the course of time. The existent approaches are hence static in the sense that they treat the criteria that are used for categorization as given. They do not interpret them as variables that are susceptible to the transaction parties design.

Best Industry Outcomes Terry Cooke-Davies, Lynn Crawford, 2012-03-01 This is a text for both thinkers and doers: those who study and those who practice project management. Project management does not exist in a one size fits all world. This research examines practices in nine industries: aerospace and defense, automotive engineering and construction, financial services, government, IT and telecommunications, petrochemical, pharmaceutical and utilities. This report is academically rigorous and immensely readable due mainly to the practical and engaging writing style employed by the authors. The literature review is a comprehensive review of concepts that form the underpinnings of the research. To academics it is essential background. To practitioners it is a highly informative tour of past and current thinking which in itself is worth the read.
