Road Funds and Road Maintenance Asian Development Bank, 2003 Singling out roads as an important factor in economic development this report presents the findings of a regional technical assistance inquiry carried out to examine the problem of road funding in Asia with the aim of proposing case specific solutions Particular attention is paid to the data collected during road assessments performed in the Kyrgyz Republic Pakistan Uzbekistan and Vietnam Also discussed are a number of possible strategies for combating road maintenance neglect across Asia Planning, Housing and Infrastructure for Smart Villages Hemanta Doloi, Ray Green, Sally Donovan, 2018-12-07 Some 7.3 billion people currently live on the planet Of these 3.4 billion live in rural areas In just a few regions Latin America the Middle East and North Africa less than 50 per cent of poverty is now located in rural areas But for the rest of the world's regions between 55 per cent and 80 per cent of the poor continue to live in the countryside Progress is being made but much of the knowhow needed is not disseminated outside of a small coterie of professionals who work in the area With urban development attracting a great deal of attention lately poorer rural areas deserve the same and new knowledge for empowerment of rural communities is urgently needed This book provides an overview of current thinking and practices that have emerged over the last thirty years for uplifting rural communities in developing economies Drawing on a body of knowledge across a spectrum of relevant disciplines this book provides a range of innovative ideas for rural planning housing and infrastructure development Governments in many emerging economies where rural poverty is often most acute have attempted to improve livelihoods Approaches and techniques that have been used for urban development are often not applicable to rural communities Studies show that money allocated for rural development is often not effectively spent due to distance lack of infrastructure lack of education poverty and other factors Meanwhile the gap in development between the city and country continues to grow sometimes leading to social and political instability in both developing and developed countries This book seeks to provide a guidebook for meeting such challenges Through in depth enquiry of global practices and thinking about rural development and selected case studies the authors argue that careful consideration must be given to incorporating issues of resilience resourcefulness and the involvement of communities at grassroots levels in realising the transformation of rural settlements into Smart Villages

Output-Based Aid Yogita Mumssen,Lars Johannes,Geeta Kumar,2010-02-25 Developing country governments and the development aid community are acutely aware of the need to find more effective ways to improve basic living conditions for the poor as traditional approaches of delivering public support have not always led to the results intended Results based financing RBF instruments which tie the disbursement of public funding to the achievement of pre agreed results are now recognized as one important piece of the aid delivery puzzle The aim of these instruments is to enhance the effectiveness of public funding Output Based Aid Lessons Learned and Best Practices provides a practical understanding of the experience with output based aid OBA a results based instrument that is being used to deliver basic infrastructure and social services to the poor including through public private partnerships OBA has been used in the World Bank Group since 2002 including more recently through the Global Partnership on Output Based Aid which has a mandate to design and test OBA approaches The authors of this book analyze nearly 200 OBA projects in water and sanitation energy health roads telecommunications and education The piloting phase of OBA has in general been a success and OBA has demonstrated clear advantages over traditional approaches in terms of efficiently targeting subsidies and mobilizing the private sector to serve poor households that would otherwise go without an improved service OBA has also demonstrated that monitoring for results is possible if appropriate systems are put in place As the first comprehensive review of OBA in eight years this book will be an essential reference for infrastructure and social services sector experts and OBA practitioners around the world including staff of international financial institutions public and private service providers and NGOs as well as for donors and governments who are interested in piloting or scaling up and mainstreaming OBA approaches As the first comprehensive review of OBA in eight years this book will be an essential reference for infrastructure and social services sector experts and OBA practitioners around the world including staff of international financial institutions public and private service providers and NGOs and for donors and governments who are interested in piloting or scaling up and mainstreaming OBA approaches

Infrastructure and Productivity in Asia J. Kidd,F. Richter,2005-02-11 There is a feeling that Asia is at a crossroad and is facing a new crisis The earlier crisis of 1997 98 showed that effective systems were missing Afterwards governments foreign investors and foreign managers initiated more holistic infrastructures but corruption poorly connecting systems and a lack of transparent management have ensured that these are under performing In this book well informed authors offer insights on Asia s political educational and physical infrastructures and indicate the routes leading to better integrated futures to development the gap between infrastructure needs and the resources governments possess to meet those needs is ever growing on account of governments razor thin budgets rapid urbanization and population growth Asia s overall infrastructure investment needs are estimated at USD 9 trillion till 2030 68% of which is for new capacity and 32% for maintaining and replacing existing infrastructure The average annual infrastructure investment during this period is about USD 750 billion As countries move up the value chain and urban populations expand demand for transport logistics and utilities will only continue to grow increasing the burden on public funds If cash flushed investors have an appetite for Asia s infrastructure projects what is keeping them at bay For infrastructure development statistics show that Asian nations have been turning to Public Private Partnerships PPP which seemed to be one of the main tools to attract financing and keep pace with rapid growth Although the PPP models are established in several Asian countries such as Singapore South Korea and Japan others are relatively immature Indonesia China and India in particular have announced ambitious infrastructure programs with governments developing mechanisms to encourage PPP investment and address barriers to PPP development The new game changers of the 21st century India and China are showing aggressive signs of opening their domestic markets to international investors While PPPs hold significant potential for Asia they also present formidable challenges Case studies of PPP markets in Australia China India Indonesia Japan Korea Malaysia Singapore and Thailand provide an Asian perspective enabling recommendations for Azerbaijan The Azerbaijani government has achieved great progress over the last decade in integrating the country into the global economic marketplace and increasing foreign investment mainly due to its oil resources Now the government s focus is on diversifying the economy outside the oil sector Azerbaijan is facing increasing demand for investment in infrastructure development overstressing the government s budget There is need for not only private sector investment but also private sector knowledge and expertise The traditional approach of the government for infrastructure development of any kind has been to use the state s own budget or privatization The first is markedly insufficient to meet the country s needs while the latter only works in a sound legal and financial framework and is not appropriate for all public service delivery projects So there is a need to see if the time is ripe for public private partnerships PPPs may not be the ultimate solution but they can help address many of the issues systemic to the region in the field of infrastructure development All it needs is a systematic approach undertaken through joint efforts of private and public sectors perspectives of the Belt and Road Initiative BRI in order to interrogate the Chinese government's representation of it as a symbol of peace cooperation development and mutual benefit. With specific focus on the interrelationship between geopolitics infrastructure investments and urban regional development, the book reflects on 12 countries' experiences in depth, including those of Iran, Pakistan, Brazil, Thailand, Indonesia, Japan, and Ethiopia, specifically to their economic development levels, political systems, power dynamics, and socio-environmental issues. The book clarifies and contributes new knowledge on the nature of BRI concerning its relationship to globalism, neo-colonialism, the notion of developed vs. developing countries, and their institutions and macro-micro benefits and impacts. In doing so, the book offers a balanced account of the antagonistic geopolitical narrative of socio-political conflict and the collaborative framework of real socio-economic flows and development. The book will appeal to academics, researchers, and policy makers with an interest in the BRI and its impacts on politico-economic development and urban regional and spatial systems in the Indo-Pacific and beyond.

ADB Publications Asian Development Bank, 2004. China - Central Asia's Regiocentric Strategies of Integration and Geoeconomics Perspectives Eric Balan, The balance of economic and political powers is indeed changing. Newer powers like China are emerging through shared economic partnerships, and this creates opportunities to grow and brings about new challenges in the stability, growth, and security of regional and global economy. The economic synergy of the Belt and Road is evolving, and it is resonating and impacting geopolitics, geoeconomics, and geostrategies. Central Asia is the new frontier, and it has the capacity to become a major global contributor. A heightened sense of continuum economic realization through collaboration is capable of bringing and showing prosperity and progress to the larger region. The work made in this research is in support of the Belt and Road initiatives; however, the focus of the research was to assess economic readiness of Central Asia. China is ready with its resources, its finances, and its manpower to take on the BRI challenges towards achieving national prosperity and solidarity for China. For Central Asia, the BRI is an important feat that it needs to secure for its own development course, but how ready are they? This research study is the gate that opens up to new and more of such works for the next 30 years.
