American Horror Film Steffen Hantke, 2010-09-30 Creatively spent and politically irrelevant the American horror film is a mere ghost of its former self or so goes the old saw from fans and scholars alike Taking on this undeserved reputation the contributors to this collection provide a comprehensive look at a decade of cinematic production covering a wide variety of material from the last ten years with a clear critical eye Individual essays profile the work of up and coming director Alexandre Aja and reassess William Malone's much maligned FearDotCom in the light of the torture debate at the end of President George W Bush's administration Other essays look at the economic social and formal aspects of the genre the globalization of the US film industry the alleged escalation of cinematic violence and the massive commercial popularity of the remake Some essays examine specific subgenres from the teenage horror flick to the serial killer film and the spiritual horror film as well as the continuing relevance of classic directors such as George A Romero David Cronenberg John Landis and Stuart Gordon Essays deliberate on the marketing of nostalgia and its concomitant aesthetic and on the curiously schizophrenic perspective of fans who happen to be scholars as well Taken together the contributors to this collection make a compelling case that American horror cinema is as vital creative and thought provoking as it ever was The Multimedia and CD-ROM Directory, 1998

Fighting Corruption In Asia: Causes, Effects And Remedies Frank-jurgen Richter,John Kidd,2003-04-03 Fundamental changes within economies are needed to create arm s length relations between governments corporations and banks We are taking risks when investing in the future and risk taking demands openness and truthfulness from the agents we employ If investors and accountants can concur on the degree of disclosure that is morally right we may come to some global agreement on what constitutes corruption but to do this we have to bring together those who advocate profit making with those who see this as usury and we have to care for the future in novel ways unknown in the past so as to allow firms to be locally inefficient apparently while preserving the environment This book looks widely at the prevailing situation in Asia and considers how little some governments are doing to guide their institutions towards probity and transparency While fundamental changes are needed around the globe it is in the developing nations that there is scope for radical change in the near future as their institutions are re created to meet the modern world Once developed and functioning their managers will have the opportunity to facilitate and re direct the institutions in the developed world which happen to be more conservative than their own
