Seagoing Ships and Seamanship in the Late Bronze Age Levant Shelley Wachsmann, 1989 Maritime Networks in the Mycenaean World

Thomas F. Tartaron, 2013-05-27 In this book Thomas F Tartaron presents a new and original reassessment of the maritime world of the Mycenaean Greeks of the Late Bronze Age By all accounts a seafaring people they enjoyed maritime connections with peoples as distant as Egypt and Sicily These long distance relations have been celebrated and much studied by contrast the vibrant worlds of local maritime interaction and exploitation of the sea have been virtually ignored Dr

Tartaron argues that local maritime networks in the form of coastscapes and small worlds are far more representative of the true fabric of Mycenaean life. He offers a complete template of conceptual and methodological tools for recovering small worlds and the communities that inhabited them. Combining archaeological, geoarchaeological and anthropological approaches with ancient texts and network theory, he demonstrates the application of this scheme in several case studies. This book presents new perspectives and challenges for all archaeologists with interests in maritime connectivity.

Early Ships and Seafaring: Water Transport within Europe Seán McGrail, 2014-11-30. Early Ships and Seafaring: Water Transport Within Europe builds on Professor Sen McGrail's 2006 volume Ancient Boats and Ships by delving deeper into the construction and use of boats and ships between the stone age and AD1500 in order to provide up to date information. Regions covered will include the Mediterranean and Atlantic Europe. This interesting volume is easily accessible to those with little to no knowledge of the building and uses of boats whether ancient or modern. Sen McGrail introduces the reader to this relatively new discipline through the theory and techniques used in the study of early boats as well as the many different types of evidence available to us including archaeological, documentary, iconographic, experimental and ethnographic and the natural physical laws.

The Social Archaeology of the Levant Assaf Yasur-Landau, Eric H. Cline, Yorke Rowan, 2018-12-20. The volume offers a comprehensive introduction to the archaeology of the southern Levant: modern day Israel, Palestine and Jordan from the Paleolithic period to the Islamic era, presenting the past with chronological changes from hunter-gatherers to empires. Written by an international team of scholars in the fields of archaeology, epigraphy and bioanthropology, the volume presents central debates around a range of archaeological issues including gender, ritual, the creation of alphabets and early writing, biblical periods, archaeometallurgy, looting and maritime trade. Collectively, the essays also engage diverse theoretical approaches to demonstrate the multi-vocal nature of studying the past. Significantly, The Social Archaeology of the Levant updates and contextualizes major shifts in archaeological interpretation.

Homeric Seafaring Samuel Mark, 2005-02-09. In this comprehensive history of Homer's references to ships and seafaring, author Samuel Mark reveals patterns in the way that Greeks built ships and approached the sea between 850 and 750 BC. To discuss and clarify the terms used by Homer, Mark draws on scholarly literature as well as examples from recent excavations of ancient shipwrecks. Mark begins by emphasizing the importance of the household during a period in which chiefs ruled and Greek nobles disdained merchants and considered seafaring a necessary but less than distinguished activity. His chapter on Odysseus's construction of a ship includes discussions of the types of wood used. He concludes that most Greek ships were of laced rather than pegged-mortise and tenon construction. Mark goes on to discuss characteristics of Homeric ships and their stern ornaments.

oars quarter rudders masts mast steps keels ropes cables and planks Mark reaches several surprising conclusions that in an agricultural society seafaring was a common activity even among the nobles that hugging the coast could be more treacherous than sailing across open sea that Homeric ships were built mainly to be sailed instead of rowed that sea battles were relatively common that helmsmen were crucial to a safe voyage and that harbors were little more than natural anchorages Mark's discussion of Homer's geography covers theories that posit Odysseus sailing in the Adriatic and Mediterranean Seas and even on the Atlantic Ocean As befits a study whose subjects are partly historical partly archaeological and partly myth and legend Mark's conclusions are tentative Yet this comprehensive and meticulous study of Homer's references to ships and seafaring is sure to become a standard study on the subject

The Gurob Ship-Card Model and Its Mediterranean Context Shelley Wachsmann, 2013-01-09 When Shelley Wachsmann began his analysis of the small ship model excavated by assistants of famed Egyptologist W M F Petrie in Gurob Egypt in 1920 he expected to produce a brief monograph that would shed light on the model and the ship type that it represented Instead Wachsmann discovered that the model held clues to the identities and cultures of the enigmatic Sea Peoples to the religious practices of ancient Egypt and Greece and to the oared ships used by the Bronze Age Mycenaean Greeks Although found in Egypt the prototype of the Gurob model was clearly an Aegean style galley of a type used by both the Mycenaeans and the Sea Peoples The model is the most detailed representation presently known of this vessel type which played a major role in changing the course of world history Contemporaneous textual evidence for Sherden one of the Sea Peoples settled in the region suggests that the model may be patterned after a galley of that culture Bearing a typical Helladic bird head decoration topping the stempost with holes along the sheer strakes confirming the use of stanchions the model was found with four wheels and other evidence for a wagon like support structure connecting it with European cultic prototypes The online resources that accompany the book illustrate Wachsmann's research and analysis They include 3D interactive models that allow readers to examine the Gurob model on their computers as if held in the hand both in its present state and in two hypothetical reconstructions The online component also contains high resolution color photos of the model maps and satellite photos of the site and other related materials Offering a wide range of insights and evidence for linkages among ancient Mediterranean peoples and traditions The Gurob Ship Cart Model and Its Mediterranean Context presents an invaluable asset for anyone interested in the complexities of cultural change in the eastern Mediterranean at the end of the Bronze Age and the beginning of the Iron Age The Gurob ship cart model is was part of an exhibition entitled Beyond the Nile Egypt and the Classical World at the J Paul Getty Center March 27 September 9 2018 Read about it here <http://blogs.getty.edu/iris/egyptian-ship-model-sheds-light-on-bronze-age-warfare-and-religion/> Digital supplement to the book featuring 3D models <http://www.vizin.org/Gurob/Gurob.html>
