Searching Image In Carrion Crows Hunting:

Searching Image in Carrion Crows Harvey Croze, 1970 Growing Points Ethology P. P. G. Bateson, R. A.

Hinde, 1976-10-07 First published in 1976 this volume is a collection of essays by some of the most prominent and active ethologists. It is organized into four sections: motivation and perception, function and evolution, development and human social relationships. The first three sections reflect the four questions which are basic to ethology: what were the immediate causes of a behaviour pattern? what is its biological function? how did it evolve? and how did it develop in the individual? The last section involves questions of all four types. The sections are introduced and linked by editorials and the book concludes with an important statement on asking the right questions. The essays are forward looking and identify areas of importance for the study of behaviour. The volume is a source of formative ideas for students, their teachers and research workers in a wide variety of disciplines in the biological, psychological and social sciences. Wildlife Abstracts U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1954 *Functional and causal aspects of nest distribution in colonies of the sandwich tern (Sterna s. sandv.)*

Veen, 2024-02-26 Wildlife Review, 1970 The Ethology of Predation E. Curio, 2012-12-06 Predation is an ecological factor of almost universal importance for the biologist who aims at an understanding of the habits and structures of animals. Despite its pervasive nature, opinions differ as to what predation really is. So far it has been defined only in negative terms: it is thought not to be parasitism, the other great process by which one organism harms another, nor filter feeding, carrion eating or browsing. Accordingly, one could define predation as a process by which an animal spends some effort to locate a live prey and in addition spends another effort to mutilate or kill it. According to this usage of the word, a nudibranch, for example, that feeds on hydroids would be a predator inasmuch as it needs some time to locate colonies of its prey which, after being located, scarcely demand more than eating, which differs little from browsing. From the definition just proposed, consumption of the prey following its capture has been intentionally omitted. Indeed, an animal may be disposed of without being eaten. Hence the biological significance of predation may be more than to maintain nutritional homeostasis. In fact, predation may have something in common with the more direct forms of competition: a facet that will be only cursorily touched upon in this book. The Flexible Phenotype Theunis Piersma, Jan A. van Gils, 2011 In essence, the authors argue for the existence of direct measurable links between phenotype and ecology.

The Ibis, 1971 Concealing Coloration in Animals Judy Diamond, 2013-04-09 Color can attract mates, intimidate enemies and distract predators. But it can also conceal animals from detection. It is an adaptation to the visual features of the environment but also to the perceptual and cognitive capabilities of other organisms. Judy Diamond and Alan Bond reveal factors at work in the evolution of concealing coloration.

Living in Groups Jens Krause, Graeme D. Ruxton, 2002-10-10 Shoals, swarms, flocks, herds, group formation is a widespread phenomenon in animal populations. It raises several interesting questions for behavioral ecologists: Why do animals form and live in groups and what factors influence the ways in which they do this? What are the costs and benefits to an animal of group living How are these influenced by ecological factors The authors familiarize the reader with cutting edge ideas on the ecology and evolution of group living animals and detail fascinating case studies demonstrating them in action General Technical Report PSW. ,1978 Ecology and Conservation of the Marbled Murrelet ,1995 Searching Image in Carrion Crows Beat Tschanz,Hans Hinrich Sambraus,Harvey Croze,O.
