Blood and Tissue Oxygen Carriers Charlotte P. Mangum, 2012-12-06 Investigations of the oxygen carriers range from the characterization of natural populations to measurements of tenths of nanometer distances between atoms The scope is so great that few biologists and biochemists can fully comprehend the primary literature in its entirety In addition the findings of the past two or three decades have advanced the field so rapidly that a truly current account is not readily accessible to a general audience In recognition of the problem a symposium was held and its proceedings published in the American Zoologist in 1980 Although it included several research reports most of the contributions were intended to summarize then state of the art information on molecular structure and respiratory function at a level that could be understood by biologists and biochemists who are not experts on our subject Judging from the reprint requests with which the authors were inundated the assessment of need had been accurate I believe that the need for an update which is wholly focused on communication to the general audience is even greater in 1992 I therefore asked the authors of this volume to address individuals who might otherwise turn in vain to an advanced textbook of physiology or biochemistry I have of course requested a more comprehensive coverage than would be possible in a general text but one that is not more parochial Just as textbooks differ vastly in the level at which their subject matter is presented so the level of non expertise was conceived differently by the contributors to this volume

North Inlet/Winyah Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve Management Plan, 1992 Providence River and Harbor Maintenance Dredging Project, 2001 NOAA Estuary-of-the-month Seminar Series, 1989 Charleston Harbor, 1989 Monitoring Ecological Condition at Regional Scales Shabeg S. Sandhu, Laura Jackson, Kay Austin, Jeffrey Hyland, Brian D. Melzian, Kevin Summers, 2012-12-06 The Environmental Monitoring and Assessment Program was created by EPA to develop the capability for tracking the changing conditions of our natural resources and to give environmental policy the advantages of a sound scientific understanding of trends Former EPA Administrators recognized early that contemporary monitoring programs could not even quantify simple unknowns like the number of lakes suffering from acid rain let alone determine if national control policies were benefiting these lakes Today adding to acidification impacts are truly complex problems such as determining the effects of climate change of increases in ultraviolet light toxic chemicals eutrophication and critical habitat loss Also today the Government Performance and Results Act seeks to have agencies develop performance standards based on results rather than simply on levels of programmatic activities The charge to EMAP of ecosystems is therefore the same today as it was a with respect to measuring the condition decade ago We welcome the increasing urgency for sound scientific monitoring methods and data by efforts to protect and improve the environment Systematic nationwide monitoring of natural resources is more than anyone program can accomplish however In an era of declining budgets it is crucial that monitoring programs at all levels of government coordinate and share environmental data EMAP resources are dwarfed by the more than 500 million spent on federal monitoring activities each year
