Marketing of Staple Food Crops in Tropical Africa William C. Jones, 1969 Agricultural Marketing in Tropical Africa H. Laurens van der Laan, Tjalling Dijkstra, Aad van Tilburg, 2018-08-09

First published in 1999 this volume explores how African agriculture has always had a strong appeal for the people of the Netherlands This is due to 1 a long established interest in tropical agriculture going back to the days when Indonesia was a Dutch colony 2 a broad based desire to help the Third World and 3 the view that Tropical Africa is highly dependent on agriculture As practical expertise in Africa and systematic research on African agriculture grew specialization became both possible and necessary This volume reflects the specialization in marketing which has been welcomed by economists geographers and scholars of agricultural marketing In addition to a general introductory chapter this book includes five contributions on staple food grains two on export crops two on cattle and one on horticulture Nine of the chapters are country specific covering Benin Burkina Faso Cameroon Cote d'Ivoire Ghana Kenya Sierra Leone Tanzania and Zambia

Woodfuel Markets in Developing Countries: A Case Study of Tanzania Jill Boberg, 2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2000 Woodfuels in developing countries particularly Africa remain a basic need for urban households who depend heavily on them for their energy needs This work examines the confusion about the environmental and social impacts of woodfuel use and the structure of informal sector woodfuel markets Using data from a year of survey field work in Tanzania the author questions assumptions of poorly functioning woodfuel markets and their impact on environment and society Approaching the unregulated woodfuel markets as industrial organizations the author uses a classic structure previously applied to developed markets in industrialized countries to determine the competitiveness and efficiency of woodfuel markets Results indicate well functioning markets under most circumstances and the study details the variables which enhance market sustainability The social and environmental implications of woodfuel use as it exists and suggestions to policymakers for improvements to enhance the sustainability of the system and the environment complete the study The study should be useful for those interested in energy and environmental issues or informal markets including agricultural markets in developing countries and to those interested in industrial organization as applied to the Third World

Food Marketing in Developing Countries United States. Department of Agriculture. Foreign Economic Development Service, 1971 Feeding African Cities Jane Guyer, 2018-08-06 Originally published in 1987 this book traces the broad outlines of urban food policy drawing attention to the limited knowledge of regional social history Urban food supply systems in Africa have developed very fast in the midst of societies in which food production was not in general oriented to feeding distant populations of specialist consumers Institutional and political links had to be forged between town and country if food supply was to be cheap and predictable This volume explores the political and material dynamics of urban food supply through 4 case studies Kano Yaound Dar es Salaam and Harare Regional Analysis Carol A. Smith, 2014-05-10 Regional Analysis Volume I Economic Systems explores the interconnectedness of economic and social systems as they exist and develop in territorial environmental systems This volume concentrates on developing and refining models of trade and urban evolution emphasizing evolutionary models and relationship between economic and political subsystems in the developmental process Topics include the regional approach to economic systems trade markets and urban centers in developing regions spatio economic organization in complex regional systems and economic consequences of regional system organization This publication is valuable to social and regional scientists geographers economists social anthropologists archeologists sociologists and political scientists interested in the implications of rural urban relations and regional settlement patterns Accounting for Services Daan Marks, 2009 The most intriguing question about Indonesia s economic development during the twentieth century is why the country s growth performance has been so erratic and displayed such a high degree of discontinuity This is connected with the fundamental question about the nature of long run economic development in Indonesia So far the economic historiography of Indonesia has been less systematic than what the available source material would permit Indonesia is exceptionally well endowed with rich statistical sources which carry the potential of supporting a rigorous and systematic quantitative approach to vital questions concerning the economic growth performance in the long run This book takes such an approach and presents new estimates for the long run growth of the Indonesian service sector and analyses the role of the various service sectors in economic development Linking empirical and theoretical analysis in a creative fashion Daan Marks provides a rich and original contribution to our understanding of the economic history of Indonesia He shows that the service sector has played a crucial role in Indonesia s economic development Or in other words to fully understand Indonesia s economic development path services need to be accounted for
