Women And Work In Africa Edna G. Bay, 2019-04-18 This collection of articles grows out of a symposium on the subject of women and work in Africa held on the Urbana Champaign campus of the University of Illinois in the spring of 1979 The organizing committee for that program sought first to update the field of economic studies of women in Africa and second to provide a forum for the exchange and stimulation of ideas among scholars and professionals concerned for women in Africa The publication here of the majority of the symposium papers represents a logical final step in the fulfillment of the objectives of the symposium program committee

Urbanization as a Social Process Kenneth Little, 2013-11-05 Urbanization is probably the most important process taking place in African countries This book provides a lucid and informative study of the significance of urbanization for social change in sub Saharan Africa which has vital implications for all developing regions Originally published in 1974

Women in Developing Countries Kathleen A Staudt, Jane S Jaquette, 2013-05-13 Here is an insightful volume on the integration of women in the modernization process of developing countries with research studies on women and development in Guatemala Tanzania Indonesia and several other countries Drawing from theory and practice authorities examine how development in any kind of economy marginalizes women illustrate the existence of a feminist awareness among impoverished rural women demonstrate the importance of understanding the policy and program implementation institutions within which any transition toward more women sensitive change is to occur and suggest the kind of research that would be useful and credible to policymakers Each of the controversial chapters reflects a new phase in women and development research and each is a reminder that the fundamental issue women s subordination remains key to theory and practice in development Onions Are My Husband Gracia Clark,1995-01-01 In the most comprehensive analysis to date of the world of open air marketplaces of West Africa Gracia Clark studies the market women of Kumasi Ghana in order to understand the key social forces that generate maintain and continually reshape the shifting market dynamics Probably the largest of its kind in West Africa the Kumasi Central Market houses women whose positions vary from hawkers of meals and cheap manufactured goods to powerful wholesalers who control the flow of important staples Drawing on more than four years of field research during which she worked alongside several influential market Queens Clark explains the economic political gender and ethnic complexities involved in the operation of the marketplace and examines the resourcefulness of the market women in surviving the various hazards they routinely encounter from coups d etat to persistent sabotage of their positions from within Extended Family in Black Societies Edith M. Shimkin,Dennis A. Frate,2011-05-12 No detailed description available for Extended Family in Black Societies The Making of Great Men Maurice Godelier,1986-03-31 This book presents a detailed account of the lives of the Baruya a tribal society in highlands of Papua New Guinea and will interest scholars and students of anthropology Being and Becoming African as a Permanent Work in Progress B. Nyamnjoh,U. Nwosu,2021-06-09 This book is a timely addition to debates and explorations on the epistemological relevance of African proverbs especially with growing calls for the decolonisation of African curricula The editors and contributors have chosen to reflect on the diverse ways of being and becoming African as a permanent work in progress by drawing inspiration from Chinua Achebe s harnessing of the effectualness of oratory especially his use of proverbs in his works The book recognises and celebrates the fact that Achebe s proverbial Igbo imaginations of being and becoming African are compelling because they are instructive about the lives stories struggles and aspirations of the rainbow of people that make up Africa as a veritable global arena of productive circulations entanglements and compositeness of being The contributions foray into how claims to and practices of being and becoming African are steeped in histories of mobilities and a myriad of encounters shaped by and inspiring of the competing and complementary logics of personhood and power that Africans have sought and seek to capture in their repertoires of proverbs The task of documenting African proverbs and rendering them accessible in the form of a common hard currency with fascinating epistemological possibilities remains a challenge yearning for financial scholarly social and political attention The book is an important contribution to John Mbiti s clarion call for an active and sustained interest in African proverbs
