Shamsul Haque, 1999-09-09 Explains and critiques current theories of political development Marx for the 21st Century Hiroshi Uchida, 2004-08-02 This book testifies that the economic thinking of Karl Marx is still valid for the 21st century introducing readers to unknown materials buried in archives which portray Marx's attitudes to democracy Marx for a Post-Communist Era Stefan

Sullivan, 2005-07-25 Was Marxism a variety of German Idealist self actualization in economic form A deeply flawed blueprint for social engineering A catechism for post colonial insurgencies the intellectual foundations of modern social democracy In this wide ranging summation Sullivan tackles the multi tentacled reach of Marx's legacy and explores both the limits and the lasting significance of his ideas Structured around three obstacles to freedom poverty corruption and banality the work engages both Marx and his critics in addressing unresolved issues of the current social and political order As such the work after two introductory chapters leaves behind Marxology and its familiar cast of characters Bernstein Kautsky Adorno Lukacs Fanon Horkheimer Marcuse etc to address both neo Marxist and non Marxist interpretations of these obstacles These include growth led poverty alleviation human capital theory current debates on rent seeking and public choice theory weaknesses in Frankfurt School approaches to mass culture and emerging trends in cyberspace and leisure consumption Marx for a Post Communist Era is credited as a foundational theoretical source in a wide range of contemporary studies Some examples include a government sponsored anti corruption report in Peru a study of neoliberalism and education reform in the UK and an urban planning essay on museum spaces and the public good Life Space and Economic Space: Third World Planning in Perspective John Friedmann, John Friedmann is internationally known for his pathbreaking work in urban and regional development planning theory Life Space and Economic Space contains some of his most original and controversial essays on spatial and territorial development in the low income countries of the world The essays focus on a conflict he considers fundamental to human existence that conflict between life space and economic space By life space Friedmann means the bounded territories over which we strive to exert some degree of self governance and which constitute the human habitat By economic space he means the ubiquitous global space of market relations Friedman demonstrates the implications of his theoretical position in a number of ways he examines development in Southeast Asia introduces the notion of world cities and presents a politico territorial model of rural development which he calls agropolitan The analysis extends in wide ranging fashion from the space of global relations to the most intimate space of the household economy which when linked to other households constitutes the economy of the barrio or neighborhood In a chapter proposing a dual track model of development he sketches a model of the barrio economy drawn from Latin American experience and based on social mobilization collective self empowerment and political action Friedmann perceives a global crisis which he traces to the dissolution of territorial relations This he believes results from penetration of the global system of markets into the remotest corners of the world undermining traditional cultures and ways of life The consequence is incipient breakdown he asserts and we need to repoliticize space and subordinate the power of capital to the collective will of people organized to work toward common ends This deliberately provocative collection of essays includes an autobiographical fragment providing contextual information about the author

A Guide to Marx's 'Capital' Vols I-III, 2012-11-15 Marx and Weber on Oriental Societies Lutfi Sunar, 2016-05-06 The Orient was central to the work of Marx and Weber both figures building their theories around the question of why modernity appeared to emerge only in the West While Marx's account focused on the accumulation of capital in the West Weber's explanation for this phenomenon centred on Western rationalization Extending recent work comparing the social theories of Marx and Weber this book examines their approaches to Oriental societies showing how in spite of the differences in their respective theorizations of the historical and political development of the West their work on the form of modern society in the Orient converges each complementing the other Fully conversant with recent scholarly work on Marx and Weber this comprehensive re-examination of the points of convergence and departure in their work requires us to re-evaluate both their positions in the history of sociology and their relevance to contemporary social questions As such it will appeal to scholars of social and political theory and classical sociology
