

Marxist theory of alienation

The Marxist theory of alienation in Marxist philosophy is the ideological interpretation of this on the psychological and sociological concept of alienation in work stories, because the worker in capitalism is not considered as a person, but as anything equivalent to a certain quantity of money and usable for the multiplication of money itself.

Marx , who is indebted to Hegelian philosophy, takes the term and applies it to materiality, specifically to the exploitation of the proletariat and private property relations. In his approach from Marxism to the process of alienation, he called alienation the distortions that the structure of capitalist society caused in human nature. Although it was the actor who suffered alienation in capitalist society, Marx focused his analysis on the structures of capitalism that caused such alienation.

Currently, like most philosophical concepts and social institutions, alienation - as an analytical category - is in a theoretical crisis due to the profound social transformations that have given way to postmodern society. The development of society has complicated the analysis of social mechanisms of alienation, directing them towards new and more subtle forms that need to be studied.

Alienation or contradiction

In his theory of alienation , Karl Marx , who in different works, especially in his Economic-Philosophical Manuscripts (1844), analyzed in great depth the problem of alienation, assumes that it characterizes the contradictions of a certain level of development of the society. He relates alienation to the existence of private property and the antagonistic division of labor. Understood in this way, alienation encompasses all human activity, since each type of activity becomes a monopoly of an isolated group of people, whose actions are foreign to all other members of society. It is also very important to know that Marx created a foundation for philosophy in the years 1805-1809 in which he wrote works that described the human reality of man. In his classic works of the 1850s and 1860s , Marx replaced the category of alienation, which appeared in his early works, with a whole system of concepts, among which alienation also appears as a concrete characteristic of the production relations of capitalism .

Components

The Marxist concept of alienation includes four components:

- In capitalist society, workers are alienated from their productive activity. Workers do not work for themselves, to satisfy their own needs, but rather they work for capitalists who pay them a subsistence wage in exchange for the right to use them for whatever they wish. Workers and capitalists believe that the payment of a salary means that the productive activity belongs to the capitalist, so workers are alienated

Theories of Alienation R.F. Geyer, D.R. Schweitzer, 2012-12-06 The original papers which appear in this volume were initially presented in a series of sessions of the Ad Hoc Group on Alienation Theory and Research at the 1974 World Congress of Sociology in Toronto Canada This group was organized by the editors as a result of their longstanding research and teaching interest in the field The purpose of the Toronto sessions was to provide an international forum where scholars and researchers could come together for a personal exchange of ideas and research findings To our knowledge this was the first forum of its kind concerned specifically with alienation theory and research More than fifty theoretical and empirical papers from thirteen countries and several overlapping disciplines were organized into panels and workshops during the span of four days The response to these sessions indicates that interest in the study of alienation by philosophers and social scientists continues unabated The Toronto sessions were organized largely around a fundamental concern for further theoretical development and conceptual clarification in the alienation field The papers selected for this volume reflect this thematic concern Although many excellent empirical papers were presented it was generally felt that meaningful empirical research would benefit from a continued elaboration and refinement of alienation theory The present collection is consequently geared to problems of meaning theory and method Considerable emphasis is also placed on a critical evaluation of the alienation theme as it has evolved from social philosophy to empirical social research
