government and economy in the twentieth century and Lenthall explains that radio's appeal came from its capability to personalize an increasingly impersonal public arena. His depictions of such figures as proto-Fascist Charles Coughlin and medical quack John Brinkley offer penetrating insight into radio's use as a persuasive tool and Lenthall's book is unique in its exploration of how ordinary Americans made radio a part of their lives. Television inherited radio's cultural role and as the voting tallies for American Idol attest, broadcasting continues to occupy a powerfully intimate place in American life. Radio's America reveals how the connections between power and mass media began.

Mary Magdalene, Princess of Orange Ralph Ellis, Mary Magdalene Princess of the Dutch House of Orange. Did Mary Magdalene travel to Provence in France? Ralph Ellis follows the trail of mythology and reveals compelling circumstantial evidence that she did and that her presence there has left its mark on the history of the region. In addition, Ralph suggests that the legacy of Mary Magdalene was bequeathed upon the city of Orange in southern France, the city that was central to the Royal Dutch House of Orange and thus central to the entire Reformation and Enlightenment movement. The book then goes on to explore the Orange Enlightenment and the Age of Reason, the twin religious reforms that created the modern rational and technical world that we live in today. But this era of rationality and reason is now threatened by forces of darkness that seek to extinguish the gains of the Enlightenment. Will the twin fundamentalist forces of Environmentalism and Islam take us back to the Dark Ages and into a new era of fear, ignorance, and oppression? In this section, Ralph Ellis tackles some ancient and modern taboos with his characteristic hard-hitting style; each and every politically correct stone is overturned in this robust defence of the intellectual freedoms of the Enlightenment.
