River Thieves A Novel:

River Thieves Michael Crummey, 2009-12-15 In elegant sensual prose Michael Crummey crafts a haunting tale set in Newfoundland at the turn of the 19th century A richly imagined story about love loss and the heartbreaking compromises both personal and political that undermine lives River Thieves is a masterful debut novel Published in Canada and the United States it joins a wave of classic literature from eastern Canada including the works of Alistair MacLeod Wayne Johnston and David Adams Richards while resonating at times with the spirit of Charles Frazier's Cold Mountain and Cormac McCarthy's Border Trilogy An enthralling story of passion and suspense River Thieves captures both the vast sweep of history and the intimate lives of a deeply emotional and complex cast of characters caught in its wake Unsettled Remains Cynthia Sugars, Gerry Turcotte, 2010-08-27 Unsettled Remains Canadian Literature and the Postcolonial Gothic examines how Canadian writers have combined a postcolonial awareness with gothic metaphors of monstrosity and haunting in their response to Canadian history The essays gathered here range from treatments of early postcolonial gothic expression in Canadian literature to attempts to define a Canadian postcolonial gothic mode Many of these texts wrestle with Canada's colonial past and with the voices and histories that were repressed in the push for national consolidation but emerge now as uncanny reminders of that contentious history The haunting effect can be unsettling and enabling at the same time In recent years many Canadian authors have turned to the gothic to challenge dominant literary political and social narratives In Canadian literature the postcolonial gothic has been put to multiple uses above all to figure experiences of ambivalence that have emerged from a colonial context and persisted into the present As these essays demonstrate formulations of a Canadian postcolonial gothic differ radically from one another depending on the social and cultural positioning of who is positing it Given the preponderance in colonial discourse of accounts that demonize otherness it is not surprising that many minority writers have avoided gothic metaphors In recent years however minority authors have shown an interest in the gothic signalling an emerging critical discourse This spectral turn sees minority writers reversing long standing characterizations of their identity as monstrous or invisible in order to show their connections to and disconnection from stories of the nation

Unruly Penelopes and the Ghosts Eva Darias-Beautell, 2012-08-06 This collection of essays studies the cultural and literary contexts of narrative texts produced in English Canada over the last forty years It takes as its starting point the nationalist movement of the 1960s and 70s when the supposed absence or weakness of a national sense became the touchstone for official discourses on the cultural identity of the country That type of metaphor provided the nation with the distinctive elements it was looking for and contributed to the creation of a sense of tradition that has survived to the present In the decades following the 1970s however critics artists and writers have repeatedly questioned such a model of national identity still fragile and in need of articulation by reading the nation from alternative perspectives such as multiculturalism environmentalism neo regionalism feminism or postcolonialism These contributors suggest that the artistic and cultural flowering Canada is experiencing at the beginning of the twenty first century is to a great extent based on the dismantlement of the images constructed to represent the nation only forty years ago Through their readings of representative primary texts their contextual analysis and their selected methodological tools the authors offer a tapestry of alternative approaches to that process of dismantlement Together they read as an unruly Penelopiad their unravelling readings self consciously

Responsibilities ,2010-01-01 In the New Literatures in English nature has long been a paramount issue the environmental devastation caused by colonialism has left its legacy with particularly disastrous consequences for the most vulnerable parts of the world At the same time social and cultural transformations have altered representations of nature in postcolonial cultures and literatures It is this shift of emphasis towards the ecological that is addressed by this volume A fast expanding field ecocriticism covers a wide range of theories and areas of interest particularly the relationship between literature and other texts and the environment Rather than adopting a rigid agenda the interpretations presented involve ecocritical perspectives that can be applied most fruitfully to literary and non literary texts Some are more general holistic approaches literature and other cultural forms are a living organism part of an intellectual ecosystem implemented and sustained by the interactions between the natural world both human and non human and its cultural representations Nature itself is a new interpretative category in line with other paradigms such as race class gender and identity A wide range of genres are covered from novels or films in which nature features as the main topic or protagonist to those with an ecocritical agenda as in dystopian literature Other concerns are nature as a cultural construct gendered natures and the city country dichotomy The texts treated challenge traditional Western dualisms human animal man nature woman man While such global phenomena as media old or new tourism and catastrophes permeate many of these texts there is also a dual focus on nature as the inexplicable elusive Other and the need for human agency and global responsibility

National Plots Andrea Cabajsky, Brett Josef Grubisic, 2010-10-04 Fiction that reconsiders challenges reshapes and or upholds national narratives of history has long been an integral aspect of Canadian literature Works by writers of historical fiction from early practitioners such as John Richardson to contemporary figures such as Alice Munro and George Elliott Clarke propose new views and understandings of Canadian history and individual relationships to it. Critical evaluation of these works sheds light on the complexity of these depictions. The contributors in National Plots: Historical Fiction and Changing Ideas of Canada critically examine texts with subject matter ranging from George Vancouver's west coast explorations to the eradication of the Beothuk in Newfoundland. Reflecting diverse methodologies and theoretical approaches, the essays seek to explicate depictions of the historical in individual texts and to explore larger questions relating to historical fiction as a genre with complex and divergent political motivations and goals. Although the topics of the essays vary widely, as a whole the collection raises and answers questions about the significance of the roles historical fiction has played within Canadian culture for nearly two centuries. Canadian Historical Writing R. Hulan, 2014-06-12. Canadian Historical Writing presents an archaeology of contemporary Canadian historical writing within the theory and practice of historiography. Drawing on international debates within the fields of literary studies and history, the book focuses on the roles played by time, evidence, and interpretation in defining the historical.
