Reynolds himself bucked the trust and introduced another bestseller Prince Albert smoking tobacco The government won its suit in 1911 Duke s Tobacco Combination was dissolved and Reynolds left with a free and independent company a much larger plant and improved machinery immediately began an expansion program In 1913 Reynolds introduced Camels a blend of Burley and flue cured tobacco with some Turkish leaf Perhaps the best known cigarette ever produced Camels swept the market and generally led the way until the development of filter tipped cigarettes in the 1950s Other important Reynolds advances include the systematic purchase and storage of leaf tobacco the development of a stemming machine the adoption of cellophane for wrapping cigarettes and the production of cigarette paper For its employees the company established a medical department introduced lunch rooms and day nurseries and installed group life insurance Perhaps more important than any of these items was the development of reconstituted leaf a method of combining scrap tobacco and stems into a fine elastic leaf entirely suitable for use in any tobacco product This achievement represented a savings of 25 percent in the cost of leaf and was followed by the development of the filter tipped Winstons and Salems The R J Reynolds Tobacco Company includes absorbing accounts of the company s steady technological progress its labor problems and advances and its influential role in North Carolina and in the industry through 1962

Reaction J Williams,RA Hook,HL Gascoigne,1998-01-01 Dryland farming is a major export earner for many temperate zone countries yet it continues to degrade a country's natural resources. Effects are not restricted to the land; changes in water quality can reduce the potential uses of water and bring about catastrophic changes in both freshwater and coastal ecosystems. Farming Action Catchment Reaction provides a comprehensive technical overview of the relationships between dryland farming systems and catchment land and water quality in Australia and integrates it in a whole system framework. It deals with the issues in terms of people pointers, processes and prediction as it discusses social aspects of developing and implementing research to improve dryland farming systems in catchment management programs, indicators of catchment health and the processes which determine the impact of the farming action on the catchment response. It concludes by considering the adequacy of our ability to use this process knowledge in models to predict the effect of dryland farming on catchment condition.
