Living with the Unexpected Anja Possekel, 2012-12-06 Living with the Unexpected deals with complexity and uncertainty two major challenges in a world faced with climate change and hazards The study focuses on appropriate methods which enable vulnerable communities to cope effectively with natural hazards and disasters The central goal of the book is an applicable combination of hazard management and development planning Therefore the reconstruction process following a disaster is understood as an opportunity for structural changes and self organisation processes that foster sustainable development In this context the potential of scenario planning as an evolutionary and participatory learning approach is addressed The empirical research concentrates on the time before and during the volcanic crisis on the Caribbean Island Montserrat Particular methods used are a systematic analysis of the complex system Montserrat more than 200 interviews with stakeholders and citizens concentrating on resource and hazard perceptions as well as the organization and execution of various scenario workshops The study shows that the opportunity to realise sustainable development on the island with the help of a participative adaptive reconstruction process is better than ever The population is sensitised to disasters and an uncertain future Their preparedness to accept measures which are designed to reduce their vulnerability is high This book demonstrates how we can learn to live with the Unexpected

Resilience & the City Peter Rogers, 2016-04-08 Following the turbulent events of the first few years of the 21st century the growth of new security and disaster measures have led to significant changes to urban design and the management of urban space This book blends the genealogical method of Foucault with the theory of rhythms by Lefebvre to examine these changes The spatial history of urban disaster is linked to the rhythms of everyday urban experience to offer a revised understanding of the regulation of order and disorder in the city In doing so the book highlights issues of hardening space the drift from civil defence to civil protection to civil contingencies and resilience this assessment realigns the potential impact of tightening security practices and resilient ways of thinking doing and acting on societal security This also links to growing concerns about quality of life over the use and potential abuse of security and disaster legislation for managing social unrest Examples studied include the increased exclusion of minorities such as young people from democracy and public life security oriented interventions in the ethnic minority communities the use of automated technologies in policing civil and minor offences e.g. digital plate recognition and speeding and the interplay of diverse social groups in more commercially aligned and increasingly securitised public spaces of the entrepreneurial city This book highlights many significant problems with the direction of British democracy and suggests there may be both positive and negative results from becoming more resilient While providing a critical appraisal of the realignment of neoliberal democracy at large it also links discussion on gentrification revanchism and urban security to a forward looking agenda for further research

The Routledge Handbook of International Resilience David Chandler, Jon Coaffee, 2016-11-10 Resilience is increasingly discussed as a key concept across many fields of international policymaking from sustainable development and climate change insecurity conflict and terrorism to urban and rural planning international aid provision and the prevention of and responses to natural and man made disasters Edited by leading academic authorities from a number of disciplines this is the first handbook to deal with resilience as a new conceptual approach to understanding and addressing a range of interdependent global challenges The Handbook is divided into nine sections Introduction contested paradigms of resilience the challenges of resilience governing uncertainty resilience and neoliberalism environmental concerns and climate change adaptation urban planning disaster risk reduction and response international security and insecurity the policy and practices of international development Highlighting how resilience thinking is increasingly transforming international policy making and government and institutional practices this book will be an indispensable source of information for students academics and the wider public interested in resilience international relations and international security

Reliability of Nuclear Power Plants Andre Lannoy, 2022-09-21 Since the 1970s the field of industrial reliability has evolved significantly in part due to the design and early operation of the first generation nuclear power plants Indeed the needs of this sector have led to the development of specific and innovative reliability methods which have since been taken up and adapted by other industrial sectors leading to the development of the management of uncertainties and Health and Usage Monitoring Systems In this industry reliability assessment approaches have matured There are now methods data and tools available that can be used with confidence for many industrial applications The purpose of this book is to present and illustrate them with real study cases The book addresses the evolution of reliability methods experience feedback and expertise as data is essential for estimating reliability the reliability of socio technical systems and probabilistic safety assessments the structural reliability and probabilistic models in mechanics the reliability of equipment and the impact of maintenance on their behavior human and organizational factors and the impact of big data on reliability Finally some R D perspectives that can be developed in the future are presented Written by several engineers statisticians and human and organizational factors specialists in the nuclear sector this book is intended for all those who are faced with a reliability assessment of their installations or equipment decision makers engineers designers operation or maintenance engineers project managers human and organizational factors specialists experts and regulatory authority inspectors teachers researchers and doctoral students
