period as evident in the many advertisements which supported Irish newspapers and magazines the jingles broadcast on Irish radio and the neon advertising signs and billboards on Irish streets The book focuses on the development of the advertising industry itself and the sophisticated ways in which it worked to associate consumption with national pride It also considers the advertising of Irish homes and home appliances as an important focus of consumption and the targeting of Irish women as the principal consumers in those homes as well as publicity stunts and advertising in public space and the form and style of commercial broadcasting and sponsored programming from the earliest days of Irish radio It finishes with an examination of the opposite extremes of consumer abundance displayed in the annual Christmas advertising as opposed to the consumer culture response to shortages during World War Two Understanding the Religions of the World Will Deming, 2025-03-03
