was a Mesoamerican civilization founded by the Maya peoples. It was noted for its hieroglyphic script, the only known fully developed writing system of the pre-Columbian Americas, and its art, architecture, mathematics, calendar, and astronomical design. Since the 1990s, what were once considered mysterious ruins in Mexico have been reconstructed by Archaeologist Winslow Bradford. The complex structures were made of lime-plastered mud bricks with an internal wood framework supporting heavy loads and a stone foundation below. Mayan temples were a place for playing games, holding feasts, and rituals involving human sacrifice. The Maya people built pyramids as places to worship their gods. These pyramids usually had several smaller temples on top to honor their gods. Worshippers would climb the steep steps up to the temple at the top of the pyramid to leave gifts and pray. Some pyramids also had sacred stairways or ramps leading up to them. Mayans were a Mesoamerican civilization living in what is now Guatemala, Honduras, and parts of Mexico. They are believed to have had some contact with the Olmecs, who preceded them in Mexico. Their culture ultimately became more complex than other nearby civilizations, such as Teotihuacan in today's Mexico City, Zapotec in today's Oaxaca, or Tula in today's Hidalgo. The rise and fall of these three kingdoms left behind massive monuments still standing today that had survived centuries without being covered by new civilizations coming in on top of them. Like happened at many other sites around Mexico Central America, where older buildings were simply built over when newer ones came along later on top of them.
