Lost Country Life:

Lost Country Life Dorothy Hartley, 1979 How English country folk lived worked threshed thatched rolled fleece milled corn brewed mead and carried on all the other tasks and trades of daily rural life Lost Long Island Richard Panchyk, 2024-01-08 From sprawling potato farms and incredibly lavish estates to whaling ships and early race cars Long Island has an incredibly rich history often lost through the generations In the world of racing Long Island was once the horse racing capital of the state and hosted the nation's first professional auto races Though farming still thrives in Suffolk County there are only a few working farms left in Nassau County where hundreds of farms dotted the landscape generations ago Cold Spring Harbor Greenport Sag Harbor and Southampton were centers of the whaling industry in America and maintain a whaling heritage today Author Richard Panchyk reveals fascinating narratives of Long Island's lost history The British Country House Revival Ben Cowell, 2024 British country houses have experienced a renaissance since the early 1970s A new accord is needed today recognising the increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British cultural life Fifty years ago the future for country houses in Britain looked bleak The Victoria Albert Museum's exhibition The Destruction of the Country House which opened in October 1974 charted the loss of over a thousand country houses in the preceding century The makers of the exhibition warned that history could be about to repeat itself because of the threats besetting mansion properties principally from higher taxation Houses faced the prospect of having to be stripped of their collections and sold for use as offices hotels or hospitals with their parks and gardens turned into golf clubs Government might afford to save just a handful of the most significant of these places working in tandem with charities such as the National Trust The rest would be consigned to history This book traces the history of country houses in Britain from the Destruction exhibition to the present day The wave of country house losses anticipated in 1974 never actually happened Instead over the next five decades Britain's country houses experienced a renaissance Fiscal rules changed in the mid 1970s to make it easier for owners to hold on to their assets Economic improvements in the 1980s and 1990s allowed many houses and estates to develop profitable commercial businesses All of this was achieved only after dedicated campaigning from heritage organisations in support of the country house cause The book argues that a new accord is needed today to recognise and value the ongoing if increasingly contested contribution of country houses to British life and culture in the twenty first century The Morville Hours Katherine Swift, 2011-05-01 Nobody writes about the garden like the English And few in England have ever been as eloquent or astute as Katherine Swift Some twenty years ago she and her husband leased a house in the town of Morville in Shropshire whose garden became her passion Driven to uncover its history she takes readers on a journey through time back to the forces that shaped the garden linking the stories of those who lived in the house and tended the same red soil with her family's own Spanning thousands of years The Morville Hours is also deeply personal a journey through the seasons but also one of self exploration of finding one's place in the world and putting down roots The Morville

Hours takes the form of the medieval Books of Hours recalling the monastic past of the house Each chapter is named after one of the Hours of the Divine Office and summons vividly to life an hour of the day or night from the crunch of grass underfoot at midnight on a frosty New Year s Eve to a perfumed May Day morning when the whole world seems sixteen again from the enervating heat of a midsummer noon to the bloom of blue black damsons picked on a golden September afternoon Together they describe the arc of the gardening year and the arc of life

The True and Only Heaven: Progress and Its Critics Christopher Lasch,1991-09-17 Traces the anti progressive populist tradition of democracy in nineteenth and early twentieth century movements by artisans and farmers as well as in major thinkers The Bookman's Tale Ronald Blythe,2009-06-30 Ronald Blythe has spent his life among the artists and writers of his native Suffolk His books especially the bestselling Akenfield have given East Anglia a distinctive literary voice Here we accompany Ronald through the lanes of Constable country we observe him in his study following his early morning writing routine we meet John Clare Traherne and countless other writers who continue to influence him we join him in the ancient tradition of Anglican worship season by season and luxuriate in the simple beauty of his ancient farmhouse and its garden made by the artist John Nash Literature poetry spirituality and memory all merge to create exquisite stories for our times Home Cooking Laurie

The Mother of All Arts Gene Logsdon, 2007-07-20 When Gene Logsdon realized that he experienced the same creative joy from farming as he did from writing he suspected that agriculture itself was a form of art Thus began his search for the origins of the artistic impulse in the agrarian lifestyle The Mother of All Arts is the culmination of Logsdon's journey his account of friendships with farmers and artists driven by the urge to create He chronicles his long relationship with Wendell Berry and discovers the playful humor of several new agrarian writers He reveals insights gleaned from conversations with Andrew Wyeth and his family of artists Through his association with musicians such as Willie Nelson and his involvement with Farm Aid Logsdon learns how music blues jazz country and even rock n roll is also rooted in agriculture Logsdon sheds new light on the work of rural painters writers and musicians and suggests that their art could be created only by those who work intimately with the land Unlike the gritty realism or abstract expressionism often favored by contemporary critics agrarian art evokes familiar feelings of community and comfort Most important Logsdon convincingly demonstrates that diminishing the connection between art and nature lessens the social and aesthetic value of both The Mother of All Arts explores these cultural connections and traces the development of a new agrarian culture that Logsdon believes will eventually replace the model brought about by the industrial revolution Humorous and introspective the book is neither conventional cultural criticism nor traditional art criticism It is a unique lively meditation on the nature and purpose of art and on the life well lived by one of the truly original voices of rural America

Circle of Stars Anna Lee Waldo, 2002-11-18 Jack the B How Ancient Europeans

Saw the World Peter S. Wells, 2012-08-26 A revolutionary approach to how we view Europe's prehistoric culture The peoples who inhabited Europe during the two millennia before the Roman conquests had established urban centers large scale production of goods such as pottery and iron tools a money economy and elaborate rituals and ceremonies Yet as Peter Wells argues here the visual world of these late prehistoric communities was profoundly different from those of ancient Rome

s literate civilization and today s industrialized societies Drawing on startling new research in neuroscience and cognitive psychology Wells reconstructs how the peoples of pre Roman Europe saw the world and their place in it He sheds new light on how they communicated their thoughts feelings and visual perceptions through the everyday tools they shaped the pottery and metal ornaments they decorated and the arrangements of objects they made in their ritual places and how these forms and patterns in turn shaped their experience How Ancient Europeans Saw the World offers a completely new approach to the study of Bronze Age and Iron Age Europe and represents a major challenge to existing views about prehistoric cultures The book demonstrates why we cannot interpret the structures that Europe s pre Roman inhabitants built in the landscape the ways they arranged their settlements and burial sites or the complex patterning of their art on the basis of what these things look like to us Rather we must view these objects and visual patterns as they were meant to be seen by the ancient peoples who fashioned them
