America's Inadvertent Empire William E. Odom, Robert Dujarric, 2008-10-01 div The United States finds itself at the center of a historically unparalleled empire one that is wealth generating and voluntary rather than imperialistic say the authors of this compelling book William E Odom and Robert Dujarric examine America s unprecedented power within the international arenas of politics economics demographics education science and culture They argue persuasively that the major threat to this unique empire is ineffective U S leadership not a rising rival power center America cannot simply behave as an ordinary sovereign state Odom and Dujarric contend They describe the responsibilities that accompany staggering power advantages and explain that resorting to unilateralism makes sense only when it becomes necessary to overcome paralysis in multilateral organizations The authors also offer insights into the importance of liberal international institutions as a source of power why international cooperation pays and why spreading democracy often inhibits the spread of constitutional order If the United States uses its own power constructively the authors conclude the American empire will flourish for a long time DIV

Globalization and the Mission of the Church Neil J. Ormerod, Shane Clifton, 2011-10-27 Various social political economic and cultural commentators are presently arguing that human history is reaching a decisive stage in its development a stage marked by increased interconnection between peoples the compression of space and time a sharing of ideas at unprecedented levels global trade and finance and so on The shorthand word used to encompass these phenomena is globalization Some embrace it others reject it while still others dispute its existence But with the abundance of literature and debate that it generates the topic cannot be ignored From its inception in the missionary mandate of Jesus Matthew 28 Christianity has had a global dimension to its mission Christianity is not a spectator to globalization but one of its agents one of the forces at work which have extended interconnection between peoples shared ideas and promoted social political and cultural links The purpose of the present work is not to provide a complete response to the question of the mission of the church in a globalizing world but to establish a framework within which answers may be sought Grounded in the writings of Bernard Lonergan and Robert Doran it develops a theology of history and addresses the churches response to the impact of globalization on vital social cultural personal and religious values The project brings together the perspectives of Catholicism and Pentecostalism the former providing a depth of wisdom and tradition the latter drawing on the insight of a newly emerging movement that has taken root in every continent with remarkable energy and enthusiasm

Temporary Agency Work and the Information Society Wilfried Beirnaert, 2004-01-01 A generation ago temporary work was practically outlawed During the 1950s the International Labour Organisation ILO clearly stated in request to a question from the Swedish government that temporary agency work was prohibited by ILO Convention 96 regarding fee charging placement Trade unions of course were in complete agreement both because temporary work arrangements undermined the situation of permanent workers and deprived the temporary workers themselves of equal treatment guarantees Yet persistent employers always ready to find ways around this prohibition have gone from strength to strength until today the role of private employment services is offered up to the public as that of an active link between employer and employee and an equal benefit to both It is even defended as a force that effects the social integration of long term unemployed even of non qualified or less qualified workers It is indeed along these lines that the proposed European directive on the working conditions of temporary workers justifies its requirement of Member States to discontinue any restrictions or prohibitions on temporary work for certain groups of workers sectors or areas of economic activity But how justifiable is this idea of the generalized leasing of employees How acceptable is it under both labour law and social justice considerations Although these important questions have been asked repeatedly for many years no answers acceptable to all parties have yet been found Accordingly in April 2003 a group of outstanding authorities practitioners ILO officials academics policymakers jurists and labour experts met in

Brussels to reconsider these issues in light of the ongoing discussion on the proposed directive and the major labour market developments which have taken place in many countries over the last few years Among the considerations raised there and recorded in this book are the following the potential role of private employment agencies as fully integrated manpower providers the wages and working conditions of workers who are put at the disposal of users guarantees of equal treatment and other social protection provisions for temporary workers the possible development of a dual employer scheme of agency and user and continuing work diversification and its acceptability to the various actors and interests involved These papers reports and panels merit great attention because the matters they discuss will determine the way our labour markets at national European and international level will function for years to come No practitioner policymaker or academic in the field of employment and labour relations can afford to ignore this very significant book This volume contains reports given at the International Conference on Temporary Agency Work and the Information Society held on 28 29 April 2003 at the Royal Flemish Academy Brussels and sponsored jointly by the Academy the Euro Japan Institute for Law and Business and the Society for International and Social Cooperation The OECD Observer Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development,2001 Why is Unemployment So High in Bulgaria? Jan Rutkowski,2003 Belgium International Monetary Fund,2003-03-04 This 2002 Article IV Consultation highlights that Belgium s real GDP growth fell sharply in 2001 to 0 8 percent and remained weak in 2002 at an estimated 0 7 percent The fundamental factor behind these developments was the slowdown in the economies of Belgium s trading partners especially Germany Thus Belgium s export market growth fell from a robust 12 1 percent in 2000 to only 0 6 percent in 2001 in 2002 export markets shrank an estimated 1 percent In 2002 employment began to decline and unemployment began to rise Politicising parenthood in Scandinavia Ellingsæter, Anne Lise,Leira, Arnlaug,2006-06-07 How to respond to the needs of working parents has become a pressing social policy issue in contemporary Western Europe This book highlights the politicising of parenthood in the Scandinavian welfare states focusing on the relationship between parents and the state and the ongoing renegotiations between the public and the private Drawing on new empirical research leading Scandinavian academics provide an up to date record and critical synthesis of Nordic work family reforms since the 1990s A broad range of policies targeting working parents is examined including the expansion of childcare services as a social right parental leave cash benefits for childcare and working hours regulations The book also explores policy discourses scrutinises outcomes and highlights the similarities and differences between Nordic countries through analyses of comparative statistical data and national case studies Set in the context of economic restructuring and the growing influence of neo liberal ideology each chapter addresses concerns about the impact of policies on the gender relations of parenthood Politicising parenthood in Scandinavia is a timely contribution to ongoing policy debates on welfare state models parenthood and gender equality It will be of particular interest to students and teachers of welfare studies family policy and gender studies Work and Family Policy Stephen Sweet,2013-09-13

Numerous challenges exist in respect to integrating work and family institutions and there is remarkable cross national variation in the ways that societies respond to these concerns with policy This volume examines these concerns by focusing on cross national variation in structural cultural arrangements Consistent support is found in respect to the prospects of expanding resources for working families both in the opportunity to provide care as well as to remain integrated in the workforce However the studies in this volume offer qualifiers explaining why some effects are not as strong as might be hoped and why effects are sometimes restricted to particular classifications of workers or families It is apparent that when different societies implement similar policies they do not necessarily do so with the same intended outcomes and usage is mediated by how policies are received by employers and workers The chapters in this book speak to the merits of international comparative analysis in identifying the strategies challenges and benefits of providing resources to workers and their families This book was originally published as a special issue of Community Work Family

Constructing Policy Change Linda A. White, 2017-09-18 In Constructing Policy Change Linda A White examines the expansion of early childhood education and care ECEC policies and programs in liberal welfare states including Australia Canada New Zealand the UK and the USA In the first part of the book the author investigates the sources of policy ideas that triggered ECEC changes in various national contexts This is followed by a close analysis of cross national variation in the implementation of ECEC policy in Canada and the USA White argues that the primary mechanisms for policy change are grounded in policy investment logics as well as cultural logics that is shifts in public sentiments and government beliefs about the value of ECEC policies and programs are rooted in both evidence based arguments and in principled beliefs about the policy A rich nuanced examination of the reasons motivating ECEC policy expansion and adoption in different countries Constructing Policy Change is a corrective to the comparative welfare state literature that focuses on political interest alone
