Paleoshorelines And Prehistory:

Paleoshorelines and Prehistory Lucille Lewis Johnson, 1991-11-12 Archaeologists have always been concerned with the relationship between the sites they study and the environments in which the sites are found Since the end of the Pleistocene Era sea levels have risen at least 120 meters a factor that has considerable effect on many archaeological sites

Paleoshorelines and Prehistory An Investigation of Method discusses the various processes that may affect coastal sites or inland sites on shallow coastal plains and presents a variety of methods that have been developed to reconstruct the shoreline at the time the sites were occupied The focus of the chapters is on processes affecting coastal sites in the Americas although the methods discussed are applicable to archaeologists worldwide The book will also guide archaeologists in designing surveys to discover site locations whether these are now inland or underwater All archaeologists and students in archaeology and geology will find a tremendous wealth of useful information in this remarkable volume Prehistoric Archaeology on the Continental Shelf Amanda M. Evans, Joseph C. Flatman, Nicholas C. Flemming, 2014-05-05 The chapters in this edited volume present multi disciplinary case studies of prehistoric archaeological sites located on now submerged portions of the continental shelf Each chapter represents an extension of the known prehistoric record beyond the modern shoreline Case studies represent central themes of landscape change climate change and societal development using new technologies for mapping monitoring and managing these sites Seabed Prehistory Louise Tizzard, Andrew Bicket, Dimitri De Loecker, Jonathan Benjamin, 2015-05-07 Archaeological investigation of Early Middle Palaeolithic flint tools including hand axes and faunal remains in the North Sea This volume also examines submerged and buried landscapes The methods used to recover artifacts and other remains and to explore these buried landscapes are also described The results are placed into the context of the British and European Early Middle Palaeolithic Stone Artefact Production and Exchange Among the Lesser Antilles Sebastiaan Knippenberg, 2007 This archaeological study reconstructs Pre Columbian exchange networks in the Lesser Antilles based on lithic artefact distributions among the different islands The Oxford Handbook of the Prehistoric Arctic T. Max Friesen, Owen K. Mason, 2016 Despite its extreme climate the North American Arctic holds a complex archaeological record of global significance In this volume leading researchers provide comprehensive coverage of the region s cultural history addressing issues as diverse as climate change impacts on human societies European colonial expansion and hunter gatherer adaptations and social organization The Archaeology of the Sapsuk River, Alaska Herbert D. G. Maschner, 2010 Culture and Archaeology of the Ancestral Unanga/Aleut of the Aleutian Islands, Alaska Debra Corbett, Diane Hanson, 2024-01-03 For the past 9 000 years people lived and flourished along the 1 000 mile Aleutian archipelago reaching from the American continent nearly to Asia The Aleutian chain and surrounding waters supported 40 000 or more people before the Russians arrived Despite the antiquity of continuous human occupation the size of the area and the fascinating and complex social organization the region has received scant notice from the public

This volume provides a thorough review describing the varied cultures of the ancestral Unangax using archaeological reports articles and unpublished data documented Unangax oral histories and ethnohistories from early European and American visitors assessed through the authors multi decade experience working in the Aleutian Archipelago Unangam Tanangin ilan Unangax Aliguutax Maqax singin ama Kadaangim Tanangin Ana ix taqangis Culture and Archaeology of the Ancestral Unangax Aleut of the Aleutian Islands Alaska begins with a description of the physical and biological world The Physical Environment and The Living Environment of which the Unangax are part followed by a description of the archaeological research in the region The People The rest of the book addresses ancestral Unangax life including settlement on the land and the characteristics of sites based on the activities that took place there People on the Landscape From this broad perspective the view narrows to the people making a living through hunting fishing and collecting food along the shore line making their intricate tools storing and cooking food and sewing and weaving Making a Living household life including house construction households and the work done within the home Life at Home and the personal changes an individual goes through from the time they are born through death including spiritual transitions and ceremonies Transitions and the evidence for these events in the material record This book is written in gratitude to the Unangax and Aleut people for the opportunity to work in Unangam Tanangin or the Aleutian Islands and to learn about your culture We hope you find this book useful The purpose of this book is to introduce the broader public to the cultures of this North Pacific archipelago in a single source while simultaneously providing researchers a comprehensive synthesis of archaeology in the region The Archaeology of Island Colonization Matthew F. Napolitano, Jessica H. Stone, Robert J. DiNapoli, 2021-05-25 This volume details how new theories and methods have recently advanced the archaeological study of initial human colonization of islands around the world including in the southwest Pacific the Mediterranean the Caribbean and Southeast Asia This global perspective brings into comparison the wide variety of approaches used to study these early migrations and illuminates current debates in island archaeology Evidence of island colonization is often difficult to find especially in areas impacted by sea level rise and these essays demonstrate how researchers have tackled this and other issues Contributors show the potential of computer simulations of voyaging in determining the range of timing and origin points that were possible in the past They discuss how Bayesian modeling helps address uncertainties and controversies surrounding radiocarbon dating Additionally advances in biomolecular techniques such as ancient DNA aDNA paleoproteomics analysis of human microbiota and improved resolution in isotopic analyses are providing more refined information on the homelands of initial settlers on individual life courses and on population level migrations Islands offer rich opportunities to examine the exploratory nature of the human species providing insights into the evolution of watercraft technologies and wayfinding the impact of humans on their new environments and the motivations for their journeys The Archaeology of Island Colonization represents the innovative ways today's archaeologists are reconstructing these unique paleolandscapes Contributors Nasullah Aziz David Ball Todd J Braje

Pont du Garde water distribution castellum the Minoan site of Knossos and the water systems of dynastic and modern China particularly the Grand Canal and early water systems designed to control flood episodes In doing so the book greatly increases our understanding of the hydraulic hydrological engineering of ancient societies through the application of Complexity Theory Similitude Theory and Computational Fluid Dynamics CFD analysis as well as traditional archaeological analysis methods Serving to highlight the engineering science behind water structures of the ancient World Heritage sites discussed this book will be of interest to archaeologists working on landscape archaeology urbanism agriculture and water management In Search of Ancient Tsunamis James Goff,2023 A how to guide to the geology geomorphology anthropology and archaeology of tsunamis and a personal story of a researcher s experience in the field and laboratory In Search of Ancient Tsunamis takes readers on a journey through the sophisticated and interdisciplinary world of tsunami science

Water Engineering in the Ancient World Charles R. Ortloff,2009-08-27 Charles Ortloff provides a new perspective on archaeological studies of the urban and agricultural water supply and distribution systems of the major ancient civilizations of South America the Middle East and South East Asia by using modern computer analysis methods to extract the true hydraulic hydrological knowledge base available to these peoples His many new revelations about the capabilities and innovations of ancient water engineers force us to re evaluate what was known and practised in the hydraulic sciences in ancient times Given our current concerns about global warming and its effect on economic stability it is fascinating to observe how some ancient civilizations successfully coped with major climate change events by devising defensive agricultural survival strategies while others which did not innovate failed to survive The Archaeology of Human-Environmental Dynamics on the North American Atlantic Coast Leslie Reeder-Myers,John A. Turck,Torben C. Rick,2019-11-04 This edited volume brings together leading scholars focused on the Native American peoples who called the Atlantic coast home for thousands of years Each chapter will address an individual region of the Atlantic coast of North America ranging from the Canadian Maritime Provinces to the Florida Keys Imperfect Balance David Lewis Lentz,2000 Together with experts in a variety of disciplines in the natural and social sciences including botany geology ecology geography and archaeology Lentz investigates the history and effects of human impact on the environment in the New World before the arrival of the Europeans in the late 15th century An Imperfect Balance offers an objective evaluation of precontact era land usage demonstrating that native populations engaged in land management practices not entirely dissimilar to their European counterparts Alluvium and Empire Parker VanValkenburgh,2021-05-18 Alluvium and Empire uncovers the stories of Indigenous people who were subject to one of the largest waves of forced resettlement in human history the Reducci n General In 1569 Spanish administrators attempted to move at least 1 4 million Indigenous people into a series of planned towns called reducciones with the goal of reshaping their households communities and religious practices However in northern Peru s Zaña Valley this process failed to go as the Spanish had planned In Alluvium and Empire Parker

VanValkenburgh explores both the short term processes and long term legacies of Indigenous resettlement in this region drawing particular attention to the formation of complex relationships between Indigenous communities imperial institutions and the dynamic environments of Peru's north coast The volume draws on nearly ten years of field and archival research to craft a nuanced account of the Reduccion General and its aftermath Written at the intersections of history and archaeology Alluvium and Empire at once bears witness to the violence of Spanish colonization and highlights Indigenous resilience in the aftermath of resettlement In the process VanValkenburgh critiques previous approaches to the study of empire and models a genealogical approach that attends to the open ended and often unpredictable ways in which empires take shape Science and Technology in Historic Preservation Ray A. Williamson, Paul R. Nickens, 2012-12-06 Technology transfer has played an increasingly important role in historic preservation during the latter half of the twentieth century a situation attested to by the undertaking of an important congressional study in 1986 that assessed the role of federal agencies in the field In this book leading researchers update the earlier findings and contribute state of the art reviews and evaluations of technological progress in their areas of expertise *IKUWA6.
