of the EMU that their fiscal budget deficit does not exceed 3% of the GDP without imposing considerable financial burdens on future generations

Policy Change, Public Attitudes and Social Citizenship Humpage, Louise, 2014-11-05 Neoliberal reforms have seen a radical shift in government thinking about social citizenship rights around the world. But have they had a similarly significant impact on public support for these rights? This unique book traces public views on social citizenship across three decades through attitudinal data from New Zealand, the United Kingdom and Australia. It argues that support for some aspects of social citizenship diminished more significantly under some political regimes than others and that limited public resistance following the financial crisis of 2008-2009 further suggests the public rolled over and accepted these neoliberal values. Yet attitudinal variances across different policy areas challenge the idea of an omnipotent neoliberalism, providing food for thought for academics, students and advocates wishing to galvanise support for social citizenship in the 21st century.

Ideology and the Politics of (in)exclusion Linda P. Ware, 2005. Ideology and the Politics of In/Exclusion provides an international analysis of the politics of research and practice in special education. The contributors to this volume establish purposeful connections to the micropolitics of disability identification and the macropolitics of social structure and describe various geographic locales. They recount multiple historical contexts, rely upon differing sources of evidence and, as a consequence, relate a more complex and richly layered analysis of educational inclusion. Ideology and the Politics of In/Exclusion breaks away from the prevailing discourse on educational inclusion as that which occurs in a vacuum, separate from social inclusion, by providing a close analysis of the narrow frameworks, historic influence and research tensions that underwrite current special education practice.

Radical Welfare State Retrenchment P. Starke, 2007-12-07. Workers in the Margins Cybèle Locke, 2012. Marginalised workers of the late twentieth century were those last hired in times of plenty and first fired in times of recession. Often women, Maori or people from the Pacific, they were frequently unemployed and marginalised within the union movement as well as the labour force. WORKERS IN THE MARGINS tells the story of these workers in the tumultuous years of post war New Zealand. These were years characterised by massive changes in the workforce as it expanded to accommodate a growing urban Maori population and an increasing desire for women to enter paid work. The world of trade unions and employment conflicts such as the 1951 waterfront lockout was vigorous and challenging. As free market policies deregulated the labour market and splintered the union movement toward the end of the century, Te Roopu Rawakore o Aotearoa, the national unemployed and beneficiaries movement, gave a new voice to workers in the margins. The people of this history come to life through oral histories from the poet and boilermaker Hone Tuwhare, building a palisade at Orakei, through to activists Sue Bradford and Jane Stevens working with the unemployed in the 1980s and 90s. Their experiences speak to the lives of many workers of the early twenty first century.
