Abstract: In recent years, the India and the Pacific region has become an essential foreign policy focus for many countries around the world, as a new growth point in the global economy and a center of power interaction. The shift from the American “Return to Asia-Pacific” strategy to the “Indo-Pacific Strategy” reflects not only the expansion and deepening of the US policy framework in Asian region, but also the enhanced strategic role and changing attitude of India, as an opportunity and focus point for the construction of the new “Indo-Pacific Strategy” in this framework. For the time being, however, India’s strategic role is still constrained by many factors, both domestic and external. This paper will therefore analyze the reasoning for the change in American strategy toward the Indo-Pacific area as well as the evolving position of India within it, analyzing its role and potential in the area in the context of India’s situation.

1.1. Research Background

The 21st century has witnessed the accelerated growth of the Asia, as well as the Pacific region and the regional development of China and India, which has attracted the attention of Washington. The major US policy shift in Asia began with the Obama Administration’s Asia-Pacific Rebalancing Strategy, after which the America gradually ended the “Anti-Terrorism” operations waging around the world, reoriented its tactical concentration to the Asia and Pacific region. After Trump took office, he officially used the term “Indo-Pacific” in Government documents Unprecedentedly, replacing the traditional concept of “Asia-Pacific.” Moreover, eventually, Trump expanded it into the Indo-Pacific Strategy and made it a core principle in handling U.S. relations with Asia. Soon after Biden took office, he released the American Indo-Pacific Strategy Report, which fully inherited the Indo-Pacific

Reconstructing Women's Thoughts Linda Kay Schott, 1997 A study of the women who led the United States section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom in the interwar years this book argues that the ideas of these women the importance of nurturing nonviolence feminism and a careful balancing of people's differences with their common humanity constitute an important addition to our understanding of the intellectual heritage of the United States Most of these women were well educated and prominent in their chosen fields they included Jane Addams and Emily Greene Balch the only two United States women to win Nobel Prizes for Peace Jeannette Rankin the first woman elected to the U S Congress and Dorothy Detzer the woman who prompted the investigation of the munitions industry in the 1930's The ideas of these women were not usually expressed in forms conventionally studied by intellectual historians On the whole their ideas must be teased out of organizational records statements of principle and policy and personal correspondence When combined with an understanding of the personal backgrounds of the WIL leaders and placed in the context of early twentieth century America these documents tell us what these women thought was important and why The ideas of the WIL leaders are also analyzed in the context of the intellectual themes of Victorianism and modernism Our understanding of these themes has been based largely on the work of privileged European and American men and the ideas of women often fit uncomfortably into these traditional categories A reconstruction of the ideas of the WIL leaders suggests that historians have overlooked an important alternative intellectual tradition in the United States To understand and appreciate women's thoughts we must dissolve the old constructs and let new multifaceted ones replace them
