can exacerbate smoldering conflicts the volume provides an important caution to the aid community     Making Global Institutions Work Kate Brennan, 2014-09-19 This book seeks to think differently about what we recognize as global institutions and how they could work better for the people who need them most By so doing the contributions show that there is a group of institutions that influence enough people's lives in significant enough ways through what they protect provide or enable that they should be considered together as global institutions The United Nations the World Bank the internet as well as private military and security companies leave a heavy footprint on the social political and economic landscape of the planet We are all aware in different ways of the existence of these global institutions but their importance in achieving change in the twenty first century is often underestimated In this book contributors seek to explain what associations exist between change in global institutions and the reduction of poverty and inequality as well as the achievement of security and justice The work makes sense of processes of change and identifies the most significant obstacles that exist offering suggestions for future action that will be of interest to students and scholars of global institutions     The

Migration-Displacement Nexus Khalid Koser, Susan Martin, 2011-09-01 The migration displacement nexus is a new concept intended to capture the complex and dynamic interactions between voluntary and forced migration both internally and internationally Besides elaborating a new concept this volume has three main purposes the first is to focus empirical attention on previously understudied topics such as internal trafficking and the displacement of foreign nationals using case studies including Afghanistan and Iraq the second is to highlight new challenges including urban displacement and the effects of climate change and the third is to explore gaps in current policy responses and elaborate alternatives for the future

Protecting Human Rights in Africa Claude Emerson Welch, 1995 The first major comparative study of the way human rights south of the Sahara have been revolutionized by NGOs which have become the most effective detectives in discovering abuses and the most active advocates in seeking solutions     Rethinking Displacement: Asia Pacific Perspectives

Ruchira Ganguly-Scrase, Kuntala Lahiri-Dutt, 2016-04-08 This book responds to the need to explore the multitude of interconnected factors causing displacements that compel people to move within their homelands or traverse various borders in the contemporary world that is characterised by extensive and rapid movements of people It addresses this need by bringing together historical and contemporary accounts and critical examinations of the displaced by articulating the commonalities in their lived experiences It accomplishes the task of charting a new path in displacement studies by offering a number of studies from interdisciplinary and diverse methodological approaches comprising ethnographic and qualitative research and literary interpretations to emphasise that although the forms and conditions of mobility are highly divergent individual experiences of displacement and placelessness offer a critical challenge to the artificial categorisations of people's movements Each chapter adds insights into the different configurations of displacement and placement and offers fresh interpretations of migration and dislocation in today's rapidly changing world The contributors critically examine a variety of displacement processes and experiences in the context of war tourism neoliberal policies of development and the impact of various agro forestry policies They focus on a range of countries enabling a thorough comparative analysis in terms of scope and range of examples and methods of analysis This book makes an original contribution to the growing body of literature on displacement and will appeal to a wide readership including advanced undergraduates and graduate students and professors in disciplines such as human geography development studies sociology and anthropology regional studies and comparative impact assessment

Global Migration Governance Alexander Betts, 2011-01-06 In the context of the growing politicization of migration a debate has emerged in policy and academia on the need to develop global governance on migration to facilitate better inter state cooperation This book provides an introduction to the institutions politics and normative dimensions of different aspects of international migration
