Representing the South Pacific Rod Edmond,1997-11-20 This book examines how the South Pacific was represented by explorers missionaries travellers writers and artists between 1767 and 1914 by drawing on history literature art history and anthropology Edmond engages with colonial texts and postcolonial theory criticising both for their failure to acknowledge the historical specificity of colonial discourses and cultural encounters and for continuing to see indigenous cultures in essentially passive or reactive terms The book offers a detailed and grounded reading back of these colonial discourses into the metropolitan centres which gave rise to them while resisting the idea that all representations of other cultures are merely self representations Among its themes are the persistent myth making around the figure of Cook the western obsession with Polynesian sexuality tattooing cannibalism and leprosy and the Pacific as a theatre for adventure and as a setting for Europe s displaced fears of its own cultural extinction

Rebellion as Genre in the Novels of Scott, Dickens and Stevenson Anna

Faktorovich,2013-02-28 When three of Britain's best loved and best selling authors each publish at least two novels with a historical rebellion theme there might be an interesting pattern worth examining This is a long overdue study of the previously overlooked rebellion novel genre with a close look at the works of Sir Walter Scott Waverly and Rob Roy Charles Dickens A Tale of Two Cities and Barnaby Rudge and Robert Louis Stevenson Kidnapped and The Young Chevalier The linguistic and structural formulas that these novels share are presented along with a comparative study of how these authors individualized the genre to adjust it to their needs Scott Dickens and Stevenson were led to the rebellion genre by direct radical interests They used the tools of political literary propaganda to assist the poor disenfranchised and peripheral people with whom they identified and hoped to see free from oppression and poverty
