perspective but also through the survivor as narrator meaning maker and presenter By conceptualising different outlooks on trauma exploring transfigurations in writing and art and engaging trauma through scriptotherapy dharma art autoethnography photovoice and choreography the interdisciplinary dialogue highlights the need for rethinking and re-examining trauma as classical treatments geared towards healing do not recognise the potential for transfiguration inherent in the trauma itself The investigation of the fissures disruptions and shifts after punctual traumatic events or prolonged exposure to verbal and physical abuse illness war captivity incarceration and chemical exposure amongst others leads to a new understanding of the transformed self and empowering post-traumatic developments Contributors are Peter Bray

History The Murals of Northern Ireland 1908-2024 is the first book-length study of the oldest and most enduring tradition of political wall art Tony Crowley shows how muralism became an important medium for the unionist and loyalist community in its political domination of public space before and after Partition The text also demonstrates that nationalists and republicans painted few murals before the start of the 1981 Hunger Strike during which they painted wall art across republican areas of Northern Ireland as a way of publicizing their cause In the context of a divided society by the mid 1980s murals had become an established genre for the expression of political demands and aspirations In Painting History Tony Crowley provides a detailed analysis of the complex tradition of muralism in the context of the history that produced it with particular attention given to the cultural politics of this remarkable form The book also raises and discusses a series of theoretical questions about murals and muralism that transcend Northern Ireland issues of propriety and legality form and content authority and censorship The work ends with a consideration of the future of the murals in a still polarized but changing region
