Seianti Hanunia Tlesnasa:

Seianti Hanunia Tlesnasa Judith Swaddling, John Prag, 2002 The magnificent painted terracotta sarcophagus of the Etruscan noblewoman Seianti Hanunia Tlesnasa has for well over a century been a star exhibit at the British Museum but it is only in relatively recent times that attention has turned to the skeleton found within which appears to be the best preserved Etruscan skeleton now in existence The initial aim of the research was to reconstruct the face of Seianti using the techniques of forensic medicine in order to compare it with that of the reclining full sized image of the dead woman on the sarcophagus lid This already yielded striking information about the Etruscans as the initiators of realistic portraiture we believe this to be the first proven identifiable portrait in western art Other avenues opened up allowing the researchers to discover fascinating facts about Seianti's health and dental problems her lifestyle her age at death and an accident in her teens that had far reaching consequences The pathologists findings have offered evidence for Etruscan mortuary practices hitherto unparalleled Consideration of the silver tomb goods the jewellery worn by Seianti and the radiocarbon dating of the bones has indicated a dating of the burial earlier in the Hellenistic period than previously accepted The construction of the sarcophagus itself a remarkable feat of firing and the techniques of its decoration form the subject of other papers while the circumstances of the find in 1876 the archaeology and evidence about the Seianti family are discussed in detail A brief survey of the Etruscans and events contemporary with Seianti's lifetime help to set the burial in its ancient context

Women in the Ancient Mediterranean World Guy D. Middleton, 2023-02-09 This book recounts the fascinating lives of thirty real women of the ancient Mediterranean from the Palaeolithic to the Byzantines Accessible engagingly written and up to date in its scholarship it will be key reading for students and researchers in Ancient History Archaeology and Mediterranean Studies as well as in Women's History

The Etruscan World Jean MacIntosh Turfa, 2014-11-13 The Etruscans can be shown to have made significant and in some cases perhaps the first technical advances in the central and northern Mediterranean To the Etruscan people we can attribute such developments as the tie beam truss in large wooden structures surveying and engineering drainage and water tunnels the development of the foresail for fast long distance sailing vessels fine techniques of metal production and other pyrotechnology post mortem C sections in medicine and more In art many technical and iconographic developments although they certainly happened first in Greece or the Near East are first seen in extant Etruscan works preserved in the lavish tombs and goods of Etruscan aristocrats These include early portraiture the first full length painted portrait the first perspective view of a human figure in monumental art specialized techniques of bronze casting and reduction fired pottery the bucchero phenomenon Etruscan contacts through trade treaty and intermarriage linked their culture with Sardinia Corsica and Sicily with the Italic tribes of the peninsula and with the Near Eastern kingdoms Greece and the Greek colonial world Iberia Gaul and the Punic network of North Africa and influenced the cultures of northern Europe In the past fifteen years striking advances have been made in scholarship and research techniques for Etruscan Studies Archaeological and scientific discoveries have changed our picture of the Etruscans and furnished us with new specialized information Thanks to the work of dozens of international scholars it is now possible to discuss topics of interest that could never before be researched such as Etruscan mining and metallurgy textile production foods and agriculture In this volume over 60 experts provide insights into all these aspects of Etruscan culture and more with many contributions available in English for the first time to allow the reader access to research that may not otherwise be available to them Lavishly illustrated The Etruscan World brings to life the culture and material past of the Etruscans and highlights key points of development in research making it essential reading for researchers academics and students of this fascinating civilization

Women in Antiquity Stephanie Lynn Budin, Jean Macintosh Turfa, 2016-08-12 This volume gathers brand new essays from some of the most respected scholars of ancient history archaeology and physical anthropology to create an engaging overview of the lives of women in antiquity The book is divided into ten sections nine focusing on a particular area and also includes almost 200 images maps and charts The sections cover Mesopotamia Egypt Anatolia Cyprus the Levant the Aegean Italy and Western Europe and include many lesser known cultures such as the Celts Iberia Carthage the Black Sea region and Scandinavia Women's experiences are explored from ordinary daily life to religious ritual and practice to motherhood childbirth sex and building a career Forensic evidence is also treated for the actual bodies of ancient women Women in Antiquity is edited by two experts in the field and is an invaluable resource to students of the ancient world gender studies and women's roles throughout history

The Etruscans and the History of Dentistry Marshall J. Becker, Jean MacIntosh Turfa, 2017-02-17 The Etruscans and the History of Dentistry offers a study of the construction and use of gold dental appliances in ancient Etruscan culture and their place within the framework of a general history of dentistry with special emphasis on appliances from Bronze Age Mesopotamia and Egypt to modern Europe and the Americas Included are many of the ancient literary sources that refer to dentistry or the lack thereof in Greece and Rome as well as the archaeological evidence of ancient dental health The book challenges many past works in exposing modern scholars' fallacies about ancient dentistry while presenting the incontrovertible evidence of the Etruscans' seemingly modern attitudes to cosmetic dentistry

Prostheses in Antiquity Jane Draycott, 2018-09-03 Today a prosthesis is an artificial device that replaces a missing body part generally designed and assembled according to the individual's appearance and functional needs with a view to being both as unobtrusive and as useful as possible In classical antiquity however this was not necessarily the case The ancient literary and documentary evidence for prostheses and prosthesis use is contradictory and the bioarchaeological and archaeological evidence is enigmatic but discretion and utility were not necessarily priorities So when how and why did individuals utilise them This volume the first to explore prostheses and prosthesis use in classical antiquity seeks to answer these questions and will be of interest to academics and students with specialist interests in classical archaeology ancient history and history especially those engaged in studies of healing medical and surgical practices or impairment and disability in past societies

The Etruscans: A Very Short Introduction Christopher

Smith, 2014-05-29 From around 900 to 400 BC the Etruscans were the most innovative powerful wealthy and creative people in Italy Their archaeological record is both substantial and fascinating including tomb paintings sculpture jewellery and art In this Very Short Introduction Christopher Smith explores Etruscan history culture language and customs Examining the controversial debates about their origins he explores how they once lived placing this within the geographical economic and political context of the time Smith concludes by demonstrating how the Etruscans have been studied and perceived throughout the ages and the impact this has had on our understanding of their place in history ABOUT THE SERIES The Very Short Introductions series from Oxford University Press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area These pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly Our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable

A Companion to the Etruscans

Sinclair Bell, Alexandra A. Carpino, 2016-02-23 This new collection presents a rich selection of innovative scholarship on the Etruscans a vibrant independent people whose distinct civilization flourished in central Italy for most of the first millennium BCE and whose artistic social and cultural traditions helped shape the ancient Mediterranean European and Classical worlds Includes contributions from an international cast of both established and emerging scholars Offers fresh perspectives on Etruscan art and culture including analysis of the most up to date research and archaeological discoveries Reassesses and evaluates traditional topics like architecture wall painting ceramics and sculpture as well as new ones such as textile archaeology while also addressing themes that have yet to be thoroughly investigated in the scholarship such as the obesus etruscus the function and use of jewelry at different life stages Greek and Roman topoi about the Etruscans the Etruscans reception of ponderation and more Counters the claim that the Etruscans were culturally inferior to the Greeks and Romans by emphasizing fields where the Etruscans were either technological or artistic pioneers and by reframing similarities in style and iconography as examples of Etruscan agency and reception rather than as a deficit of local creativity

Images and Artefacts of the Ancient World Alan K. Bowman, Michael Brady, 2005-05-26 In this genuinely productive interdisciplinary dialogue engineering scientists archaeologists and historians discuss how recent exciting developments in imaging image analysis and image display diffusion can be applied to three dimensional objects of material culture from the classical world ranging from inscribed writing tablets to buildings and urban sites The fifteen papers explore the ways in which the scientific contributors and the historians are thinking about subjectivity of interpretation visual cognition and the need to improve the presentation of evidence so as to feed directly back into their own scientific thinking and to encourage genuine innovation in developing methods of image enhancement and the interpretation of objects

Death Mario Erasmio, 2021-03-25 Personal and yet utterly universal inevitable and yet unknowable death has been a dominant theme in all cultures since earliest times Different societies address death and the act of dying in culturally diverse ways yet remarkably across the span of several millennia we can recognize in the customs of ancient Greece and Rome ceremonies and rituals that have enduring present day resonance For example preparing the corpse of the deceased holding a memorial service the practice of cremation and of burial in resting places are all liminal processes that can trace their origin to ancient practices Such rites described by Cicero and Herodotus among others have defined traditional modern funerals Yet of late there has been a shift away from classical ritual and sombre memorialization as the dead are transformed into spectacles Ad hoc roadside shrines virtual burials online guest books and even jazz memorial processions and firework displays have come to the fore as new modes of marking even celebrating bereavement What is causing this change and how do urbanisation economic factors and the rise of individualism play a part Mario Erasmo creatively explores the nexus between classical and contemporary approaches to dying death and interment From theme funerals in St Louis to Etruscan sarcophagi he offers a rich and insightful discussion of finitude across the ages
