Reflective Learning in Management, Development and Education David Higgins, 2017-07-05 In recent years there has been a growing interest in the ideas surrounding reflective practice specifically in the areas of learning in management development and education This interest has developed in a growing number of professional fields thus making for very diverse understandings of what can be regarded as complex approaches to learning In order to understand how reflective practice can support and aid learning it is helpful to acknowledge how we learn First all learners start from their own position of knowledge and have their own set of experiences to draw upon Second learning is contextual something which managers need to acknowledge To make sense and achieve a deep understanding of material and experiences one needs to relate new information to existing knowledge and experiences This is best achieved through a process of reflection Indeed the underlying rationale for the chapters in this publication is to explore how the role of practice reflection and critical reflection are understood and developed within a learning process which is supported through the application of reflective tools This book recognises and makes explicit the diverse yet inclusive nature of the field By including a range of contributions from both subject specific disciplines and professional contexts it seeks to enable the reader in documenting some of the current uses of reflection and critical reflection while also illustrating some of the newer methods in use as well as the current contributions to thinking in the subject domain Through this publication the editor and authors hope to provide a basis from which continuing professional development and education can be enhanced This book was originally published as a special issue of Reflective Practice International and Multidisciplinary Perspectives Teaching and Learning in Physical Therapy Margaret M. Plack, MaryAnne Driscoll, 2011 Teaching students about professionalism just before an anatomy midterm or presenting a mandatory in service to clinicians at the end of a busy summer Friday
