Reforming Korea's Industrial Conglomerates:

Reforming Korea's Industrial Conglomerates Edward Montgomery Graham, 2003 In 1998 the Korean economy experienced the deepest recession since the Korean War. Within a year a number of smaller industrial conglomerates had failed. In this study Graham examines the causes of this situation, tracing them back to the aggressive industrial policy begun by President Park Chung-hee during the late 1960s. He also analyzes reforms undertaken since 1997, concluding that they have not been entirely successful. Reforming the IMF for the 21st Century, 2006 Neoliberalism and Institutional

Reform in East Asia Meredith Jung-En Woo, 2007-11-06 This book brings together scholars of political economy, law, and sociology to interrogate the seemingly unproblematic notions of the rules of law, good corporate governance, and flexible labour market that inform neoliberal policy prescriptions. It also discusses how these concepts have been translated and practiced in East Asia. The Oxford Handbook of South Korean Politics JeongHun Han, Ramon Pacheco Pardo, Youngho

Cho, 2023-01-24 This Handbook presents and analyses contemporary South Korean politics, bringing together domestic political, economic, social, cultural, and demographic developments and putting them in the context of trends in fellow developed countries. Transformations in the Brazilian and Korean Processes of Capitalist Development between the Early 1950s and the Mid-2010s: From Global Capital Accumulation to Late Industrialisation Nicolás Grinberg, 2023-10-16 Challenging mainstream nation-centred theories of economic development, Nicolás Grinberg examines the specificities of capitalist development in Brazil and South Korea by starting from their modes of participation in the international division of labour and hence in the production of surplus value on a global scale. Contrary to those theories, he does not consider these as resulting simply from the economic policies of nation-states and their associated political institutions, nor from local class struggle dynamics or geopolitical developments. Rather, drawing on key insights from Marx's critique of political economy, his analysis begins by recognising that the process of capitalist development is global in terms of its economic dynamics and historical trends, and national only in its political and institutional forms of realisation. State-mediated patterns of economic development and institutional change in Brazil and Korea, as well as the intra and inter-state political processes through which these have come about, are then considered as mediations in the conformation and reproduction of the nationally differentiated, uneven process of capital's valorisation on a global scale. The Korean

Developmental State Iain Pirie, 2007-09-12 Iain Pirie gives a comprehensive and up-to-date analysis of state and economic restructuring in South Korea since the 1997 crisis. Routledge Handbook of Korean Politics and Public

Governing Finance Andrew Walter,2011-03-15 The international financial community blamed the Asian crisis of 1997 1998 on deep failures of domestic financial governance To avoid similar crises in the future this community adopted and promoted a set of international best practice standards of financial governance The G7 asked specialized public and private sector bodies to set international standards and tasked the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank with their global dissemination Non Western countries were thereby encouraged to emulate Western practices in banking and securities supervision corporate governance financial disclosure and policy transparency In Governing Finance Andrew Walter explains why Indonesia Malaysia South Korea and Thailand key targets and test cases of this international standards project were placed under intense pressure to transform their domestic financial governance Walter finds that the depth of the economic crisis and more enduring aspects of Asian capitalism such as family ownership of firms made substantive compliance with international standards very costly for the private sector and politically difficult for governments to achieve In spite of international compliance pressure the result was varying degrees of cosmetic or mock compliance In a book containing lessons for any agency or country attempting to implement lasting change in financial governance Walter emphasizes the limits of global regulatory convergence in the absence of support from domestic politicians institutions and firms

Financial Globalization, Economic Growth, and the Crisis of 2007-2009 , Seoul Rafael Luna, 2024-04-30 This book focuses on understanding how a megacity like Seoul can be read as a formal architectural composition and not an endless urban sprawl In a broader sense the book discusses the dichotomy between city and urbanization city being an architectural problem of bounded forms while urbanism is an infrastructural project of expansion It is an uncontested reality that urbanization is a continuous global process that has produced nebulous conurbations labeled as megacities These expand beyond the virtual administrative boundary of any said city producing a discrepancy between an area of administrative control and the real physical condition of human settlement If there were a better formal understanding of megacities through their typological architectural conditions then there could be a better assessment of the qualitative state of urbanization Avant garde groups from the 1950s 1960s and 1970s such as Team X the Situationist the Structuralist and the Metabolist worked with ideas of megaforms and megastructures to address this issue Although most of these proposals remained as paper architecture this book reevaluates some of these ideas for the 21st century megacity using Seoul as a case study due to its clear typological formations produced over its different periods of governance The aim is to present the concept for an infra architectural hybrid model of typological islands and subterranean megastructure that organizes Seoul as a flexible multi linear city This book will be of interest to academics and students of architecture urban geography and Asian studies
