Electronic Publishing '01 Arved Hübler, Peter Linde, John W. T. Smith, 2001 An overview of the situation in electronic publishing and its interference between new digital technologies and the publishing and librarian applications Over 30 papers cover the research and application of electronic publishing The papers were presented at the 5th International Conference on Electronic Publishing held in Canterbury UK 2001 The papers cover such topics as models and experiences in infrastructure of publishing processes content management and integrated multimedia networking XML technologies navigation and user interaction with digital library systems On the Origin of Species Charles Darwin, 2009-05-14 Charles Darwin's On the Origin of Species By Means of Natural Selection is both a key scientific work of research still read by scientists and a readable narrative that has had a cultural impact unmatched by any other scientific text First published in 1859 it has continued to sell to be reviewed and discussed attacked and defended The Origin is one of those books whose controversial reputation ensures that many who have never read it nevertheless have an opinion about it Jim Endersby's major scholarly edition debunks some of the myths that surround Darwin's book while providing a detailed examination of the contexts within which it was originally written published and read Endersby provides a very readable introduction to this classic text and a level of scholarly apparatus explanatory notes bibliography and appendixes that is unmatched by any other edition Collecting Ladies Penny Olsen, 2013 Around 1870 Ferdinand von Mueller the greatest Australian botanist of the nineteenth century began to advertise in several newspapers across Australia for lady plant collectors This was at a time when women typically had little recourse to science or contact with men outside their circle of friends making Mueller's network of ladies quite extraordinary Collecting Ladies profiles 14 of Mueller's coterie of women collectors Included are Fanny Charsley Louisa Atkinson Annie Walker and Ellis Rowan for whom Mueller made time to assist in pursuit of their own passions He identified the plants they painted and provided letters of introduction to publishers and scientists Together these ladies produced some of the most beautiful books and botanical art to come out of Australia in the nineteenth century covering all the Australian colonies Regardfully Yours Ferdinand von Mueller, Roderick Weir Home, 1998 Of German origin Ferdinand von Mueller migrated to Australia in 1847 Government Botanist of Victoria for 43 years until his death in 1896 he was Australia's greatest scientist of the 19th century a major contributor to international science an intrepid explorer of parts of Australia previously unknown to Europeans and a dominant figure in the scientific and intellectual life of his adopted country Throughout his working life Mueller kept up an enormous correspondence Large numbers of letters by or to him have been located scattered throughout the world and edited for publication These constitute a major new research tool for both Australian historians and historians of science They are also of fundamental importance to Australian taxonomic botany for Mueller introduced vast numbers of Australian plants to western science This first of three volumes of Mueller's selected correspondence covers his early life in Germany prior to his migration to Australia his years in South Australia and his first years as Government Botanist of Victoria This was the period during which Mueller undertook his major exploring expeditions in the southeast of the continent and in northern Australia and also took on the development of Melbourne s famed Botanic Garden The volume includes family and other letters from Mueller s youth and later correspondence both official and private documenting his formation as a scientist his building of links with scientists in other parts of the world his activities as an explorer and his role in the establishment of new scientific and cultural institutions in Australia during the hectic gold rush years

Imperial Nature Jim Endersby,2020-05-21 Joseph Dalton Hooker 1817 1911 was an internationally renowned botanist a close friend and early supporter of Charles Darwin and one of the first and most successful British men of science to become a full time professional He was also Jim Endersby argues the perfect embodiment of Victorian science A vivid picture of the complex interrelationships of scientific work and scientific ideas Imperial Nature gracefully uses one individual s career to illustrate the changing world of science in the Victorian era By analyzing Hooker s career Endersby offers vivid insights into the everyday activities of nineteenth century naturalists considering matters as diverse as botanical illustration and microscopy classification and specimen transportation and storage to reveal what they actually did how they earned a living and what drove their scientific theories What emerges is a rare glimpse of Victorian scientific practices in action By focusing on science s material practices and one of its foremost practitioners Endersby ably links concerns about empire professionalism and philosophical practices to the forging of a nineteenth century scientific identity

Flora's Fieldworkers Ann Shteir,2022-08-09 When Catharine Parr Traill came to Upper Canada in 1832 as a settler from England she brought along with her ties to British botanical culture Nonetheless when she arrived she encountered a new natural landscape and like other women chronicled in this book set out to advance the botanical knowledge of the time from the Canadian field Flora s Fieldworkers employs biography botanical data herbaria specimens archival sources letters institutional records book history and abundant artwork to reconstruct the ways in which women studied and understood plants in the nineteenth century It features figures ranging from elite women involved in imperial botanical projects in British North America to settler colonial women in Ontario and Australia most of whom were scarcely visible in the historical record who were active in plant work as collectors writers artists craft workers teachers and organizers Understood as an appropriate pastime for genteel ladies botany offered women pathways to scientific education financial autonomy and self expression The call for more diverse voices in the present must look to the past as well Bringing botany to historians and historians to botany Flora s Fieldworkers gathers compelling material about women in colonial and imperial Canada and Australia to take a new look at how we came to know what we know about plants

Empire and Environmental Anxiety J. Beattie,2011-05-25 A new interpretation of imperialism and environmental change and the anxieties imperialism generated through environmental transformation and interaction with unknown landscapes Tying together South Asia and Australasia this book demonstrates how environmental anxieties led to increasing state resource management conservation and urban reform Domestication of Radiata Pine Rowland Burdon, William Libby, Alan Brown, 2017-12-12

In nature radiata pine is very localised and an obscure tree species despite the romantic character of much of its natural habitat. That obscure status and the lack of any reputation as a virgin timber slowed its due recognition as a commercial crop. Nevertheless it has become a major plantation forest crop internationally. It has become the pre eminent commercial forest species in New Zealand, Chile and Australia with important plantings in some other countries. It consequently features prominently in the international trade in forest products in addition to its importance in domestic markets of grower countries. Very fast growth, considerable site tolerances, ease of raising in nurseries and transplanting and ease of processing and using its wood for a range of products and purposes have made it the utility softwood of choice almost everywhere it can be grown satisfactorily. Abundant genetic variation and its amenability to other management inputs created special opportunities for its domestication. The story of its domestication forms a classic case history in the development of modern commercial forestry with trailblazing in both genetic improvement and plantation management. This inevitably meant a learning process that provided instructive lessons especially for tree breeders dealing with some other species. Paradoxically the plantation monocultures have played and can continue to play an important role in protecting natural forests and other forms of biodiversity. Given the attractions of growing radiata pine there were inevitably cases of overreach in planting it with lessons to be learnt. Economic globalisation has meant globalisation of pests and disease organisms and the scale on which radiata pine is grown has meant it has been the focus of various biotic alarms, none of which have proved catastrophic. Temptations remain however to pay less than due attention to some aspects of risk management. The chapter structure of the book is based on historical periods beginning long before any important human influences and ending with a look into what the future might hold for the species and its role in human and ecological sustainability. Almost throughout there has been complex interplay between the technical aspects, local social and economic factors, various types of institution, the enthusiasm and drive of some very influential individuals and tides of economic ideology, threads that needed to be woven together to do the story justice.
