Measuring Hospital Performance

Gerard O'Callaghan

Measuring Hospital Performance:

Measuring Hospital Performance John R. Griffith, 1978 A proposal is made for a new set of measures of community general hospital performance The set is conceived as summarized in fewer than two dozen specific statistics covering three areas of cost quantity and quality of hospital services and as placing heavy emphasis upon the identification of a service population or community for each hospital The statistics would be presented in terms of this community Data 891116 internet

Measurement of Hospital Performance Gerard O'Callaghan, 2011 The rationale for carrying out this research was to address the clear lack of knowledge surrounding the measurement of public hospital performance in Ireland The objectives of this research were to develop a comprehensive model for measuring hospital performance and using this model to measure the performance of public acute hospitals in Ireland in 2007 Having assessed the advantages and disadvantages of various measurement models the Data Envelopment Analysis DEA model was chosen for this research DEA was initiated by Charnes Cooper and Rhodes in 1978 and further developed by Fare et al 1983 and Banker et al 1984 The method used to choose relevant inputs and outputs to be included in the model followed that adopted by Casu et al 2005 which included the use of focus groups The main conclusions of the research are threefold Firstly it is clear that each stakeholder group has differing opinions on what constitutes good performance It is therefore imperative that any performance measurement model would be designed within parameters that are clearly understood by any intended audience Secondly there is a lack of publicly available qualitative information in Ireland that inhibits detailed analysis of hospital performance Thirdly based on available qualitative and quantitative data the results indicated a high level of efficiency among the public acute hospitals in Ireland in their staffing and non pay costs averaging 98.5% As DEA scores are sensitive to the number of input and output variables as well as the size of the sample it should be borne in mind that a high level of efficiency could be as a result of using DEA with too many variables compared to the number of hospitals No hospital was deemed to be scale efficient in any of the models even though the average scale efficiency for all of the hospitals was relatively high at 90.3% Arising from this research the main recommendations would be that information on medical outcomes survival rates and patient satisfaction should be made publicly available in Ireland that despite a high average efficiency level that many individual hospitals need to focus on improving their technical and scale efficiencies and that performance measurement models should be developed that would include more qualitative data
Hospital Performance in Brazil Gerard Martin La Forgia, Bernard Couttolenc, 2008-01-01 Drawing on an eclectic array of research and evaluative studies culled from a mix of sources this volume analyzes Brazilian hospital performance along several policy dimensions including resource allocation and use within hospitals hospital payment mechanisms organizational and governance arrangements management practices and regulation and quality An agenda for hospital reform is proposed which synthesizes priorities that are integral to improving hospital

Triangular Single Valued Neutrosophic Data Envelopment Analysis: Application to Hospital Performance Measurement Wei Yang, Lulu Cai, Seyed Ahmad Edalatpanah, Florentin Smarandache, 2020-06-01 The foremost broadly utilized strategy for the valuation of the overall performance of a set of identical decision making units DMUs that use analogous sources to yield related outputs is data envelopment analysis DEA. However, the witnessed values of the symmetry or asymmetry of different types of information in real world applications are sometimes inaccurate, ambiguous, inadequate and inconsistent, so overlooking these conditions may lead to erroneous decision making. Neutrosophic set theory can handle these occasions of data and makes an imitation of the decision making procedure with the aid of thinking about all perspectives of the decision. In this paper, we introduce a model of DEA in the context of neutrosophic sets and sketch an innovative process to solve it. Furthermore, we deal with the problem of healthcare system evaluation with inconsistent, indeterminate and incomplete information using the new model. The triangular single valued neutrosophic numbers are also employed to deal with the mentioned data, and the proposed method is utilized in the assessment of 13 hospitals of Tehran University of Medical Sciences of Iran. The results exhibit the usefulness of the suggested approach and point out that the model has practical outcomes for decision makers. The Measurement of Productive Efficiency Harold O. Fried, Shelton S. Schmidt, C. A. Knox Lovell, 1993-04-22 This work focuses on measuring and explaining producer performance. The authors view performance as a function of the state of technology and economic efficiency, with the former defining a frontier relation between inputs and outputs, the former incorporating waste and misallocation relative to this frontier. They show that insights can be gained by allowing for the possibility of a divergence between the economic objective and actual performance and by associating this inefficiency with causal variables subject to managerial or policy influence. Derived from a series of lectures held on techniques and applications of the three approaches to the construction of production frontiers and measure of efficiency, this work will be an essential reference to scholars of a variety of disciplines who are involved with quantitative methods or policy. Measurement and Analysis in Transforming Healthcare Delivery Harry C. Sax, 2016-12-08 This volume is complementary to Volume 1 Quantitative Approaches in Health Systems Engineering which provides in-depth analysis of the statistical and quantitative aspects of Health Systems Engineering. Volume 2 Practical Applications to Engage and Align Providers and Consumers builds upon these concepts with the integration of additional economic performance and quality measures. Stressing the importance of changes in the economics of health care financing, it will serve as a resource for not only leaders of organizations but also providers who will be practicing a different type of medicine from that of which they were trained. After defining the challenges, the authors will quantify and define funds flows and various margins.

necessary for viability how providers will be measured and rewarded for quality and the importance of accurate dashboard of physician performance Types of payment systems including capitation ACOs risk contracts and hybrid forms of fee for service will be defined and their relative advantages discussed Lessons from other countries that provide high quality care at a lower cost will be examined for applicability to our challenges Finally experts in leadership will focus on influencing behavior to achieve results while remembering that healthcare is about the patient This textbook will serve as a useful resource for clinicians healthcare executives governmental agencies and emerging leaders in organizations

Sosiaali- ja terveystieteiden tutkimus- ja kehittämiskeskus,STAKES, National Research and Development Centre for Welfare and Health,1999 The main objectives of this study were to quantify the differences in hospital productivity and efficiency in Finland using various modelling techniques and to find explanations for the observed differences In addition this study analyses and discusses differences between methods used in the measurement of hospital productivity and efficiency This study was able to discern the existence of differences in technical and cost efficiency between Finnish hospitals in 1988 1994 The use of non parametric techniques and Malmquist productivity progress in the latter half of the observation period
